3 Die in Panic In Boston Subway

Smoke Sets Off Hysteria; Fire, Blasts Wreck Gypsum Plant

Boston, Jan. 28 (AP)—At least three persons were killed and an undetermined number injured in a crowded subway station swept by panic as sudden fire filled shafts and corridors with smoke.

Among the dead—two women and a man—police reported, were: Ethel Marie Butler, 52, of 4 Pine Grove avenue, Bilerica, a telephone company employee.

An unidentified woman, Robert Lever, 83, Beacon Chambers, 19 Myrtle St., Boston, an employee of the Otis Elevator Company who was making repairs with two other men. A fellow-employee, George McAlpine, made the identification.

Police reported a screaming mob scene broke out in the underground station near

Wages May Be At Postwar Peak

Some Indication Is Given, However, Pay Cuts May Not Reach All

Washington, Jan. 28 (AP)—The economic winds stirred up a hint today that wages, like prices, may have reached a postwar peak. In some cases, they may have started a downward trend.

More than 300,000 auto and electrical workers of the General Motors Corp. stand to take a two or three-cent an hour pay cut on the basis of the government's declining cost-of-living index.

And officials of at least one major union, the C.I.O.'s Amalgamated Clothing Workers, said they have decided against a fourth round of postwar pay boosts because of slackened demand for their apparel.

Defense Budget Appears Safe From Major Slashes

Washington, Jan. 28 (AP)—President Truman's $14,268,000,000 defense budget for the fiscal year starting in July appeared safe from major slashes today, although the air forces may get a bigger share than the President asked.

House Appropriations Committee members said as much following an off-the-record session with Secretary of Defense Forrestal and other top military leaders yesterday.

Congress may give the air forces enough money for a 70-group force instead of the 48 requested by Mr. Truman, they indicated, by simply transferring to it an estimated $800,000,000 set aside in the budget for universal military training.

"Congress just isn't going to pass a U.M.T. bill," a committee member said.

New Code Is Likely For Houses

New York, Jan. 28 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and leading builders of New York state say they are determined to break down barriers that are keeping many people from owning or building homes of their own.

Establishment of a state-wide building code is a key step in their plans to cut housing and construction costs, eliminate outmoded municipal regulations and permit use of new materials and methods.

Dewey asked and received support for his home construction program yesterday at conferences with contractors, home-developers, bankers and insurance men.

The builders called on Dewey to commit the state to take three major steps to spur the building of cheaper homes:

1. Establishment of a state board of standards and appeals, to which builders might appeal all matters pertaining to land use codes, zoning ordinances and local planning commission requirements.
2. Creation of a system of licensing electricians, plumbers and other craftsmen to end any local systems under which workmen licensed in one community are barred from working in another locality.
3. Study of equalization of state laws applying to mortgages, so that banks, insurance companies and building and loan corporations would be free to make loans in all parts of the state and, through competition, reduce mortgage interest rates.

The governor did not commit himself officially on the three new proposals, presented by Alfred Gross, Long Island builder and president of the State Association of Home Builders, at a session of 200 contractors and developers.

Dewey and the builders agreed informally to press for legislation that would remove prejudices and rules against small homes in fashionable neighborhoods.

Fresh Snowfalls Retard Efforts To Feed Livestock

Nebraska Gets Most Snow; Long Stretch of Ohio River Is Near Flood Stage

(By The Associated Press)

More bad weather hit portions of the storm-stricken western rangelands today. Snow and windstorms slowed to some degree the fight which is being waged on many fronts to save the millions of starving and snow-bound cattle and sheep.

There were fresh falls of snow, accompanied by strong winds, in Nebraska and in parts of Nevada, Utah, Idaho and Arizona.

Nebraska, one of the hardest hit by the earlier blizzards, got the most snow. Winds whipped the snow into drifts over newly cleared highways and rail lines and curtailed relief work in the disaster areas.

Lesser amounts of snow fell in other parts of the rangelands but did not seriously interfere with the relief operations. Federal and state officials joined in the battle to dig out from the Rocky Mountain region.

Emergency cash relief came from federal and state sources to finance the huge task of saving the more than 5,000,000 cattle and sheep which are in varying degrees of distress in the western storm areas.

Inclement weather also struck over other sections of the nation. There was widespread precipitation over the central part of the country. There was a band of freezing rain and sleet from southern lower Michigan into Texas. Snow fell over most of the north central region. Temperatures dropped and a new cold wave was forecast.

Flood conditions remained in the weather picture. Warnings were issued for a 171-mile stretch of the Ohio past Cincinnati. Some 1,000 families have been driven from their homes by flood waters from Ohio river tributaries in southern Illinois.

Rain fell along the Appalachians and in the north Atlantic states. There was snow in the New England states. Temperatures continued mild in the southeastern states and were slightly below normal along the Pacific coast.

A survey disclosed at least 2,500,000 head of cattle and 2,800,000 sheep are stranded and facing starvation over the western ranges. Early indications were that the great cattle and sheep producing industry will suffer a staggering economic loss. However, no estimate of losses was made by federal livestock reporting experts because of inability to obtain accurate ground checks.

In Salt Lake City the National Wool Growers Association estimated that half of the nation's sheep population was in critical condition from the cold and snow and lack of feed. There are 2,000,000 sheep in the storm areas of Wyoming, Colorado, Nevada and Utah—nearly half of them in Utah.

The new snow piled up some drifts in the Rocky Mountain region as well as in Nebraska and

'Axis Sally' Trial Rests Few Days

Jurors Receive Recess From Nazi War Talk; Miss Gillars Shows No Emotion

Voice 'Identified'

Houben Says Person Who Made Records Was 'Sally'

Washington, Jan. 28 (AP)—Jurors in the "Axis Sally" treason trial rested their ears today from a barrage of Nazi war propaganda.

The respite lasts until Monday. Then they will listen to much more of it—the evidence by which prosecutors hope to convince the jurors that Mildred E. Gillars, 48, betrayed her country for Nazi cash.

U. S. District Courts ordinarily meet here on Friday, but attorneys for both sides told Judge Edward M. Curran they had agreed there should be no court today. The lawyers said they have work to do before the trial resumes.

If convicted, Maine-born Miss Gillars faces a possible death sentence.

The jury listened to play-backs of five recordings of "Axis Sally" programs taken down by government monitors.

John M. Kelley, Jr., the chief prosecutor, asked a former Nazi radio official whether he recognized any voices. The witness, Adelbert Houben, replied that it was Miss Gillars' voice.

Court officials, jurors, attorneys and news reporters put on earphone sets to hear the play-backs. Court spectators could not hear them.

At first Miss Gillars listened attentively, her chin rested on folded hands. She seemed to lose interest as time went on, and she removed her earphones. She showed no emotion.

The first recording the jury heard was called "Midge at the Mike," described as "for our feminine listeners especially."

Midge—Miss Gillars, Houben said—started out:

"This is Berlin calling. Berlin calling the American mothers, wives and sweethearts."

Then Midge told why she wasn't "sitting at home with you at the little sewing bees knitting socks for our men over in North Africa."

"Yes, girls, there is a reason," Midge said. "It's because I'm not on the side of President Roosevelt."

Li Dispatches Plea For Peace to Mao; Confers With Pai

Acting Chinese President Asks Reds to Name Place, Select Negotiators

Nanking, Jan. 28 (AP)—Acting President Li Tsung-jen perked up peace prospects today by sending a personal plea to Red leader Mao Tse-tung.

Caretaker for a government deeply distrusted by the Communists, Li urged Mao to name the place and Red negotiators for a peace conference.

Li acted after his old buddy, Gen. Pai Chung-hsi, flew in from his central China command headquarters at Hankow.

Pai, who with General Li threatened a revolt in 1936 unless Chiang Kai-shek actively fought Japan, was believed strengthening the acting president's hand in the peace move.

Two high government officials considered to be still taking Chiang Kai-shek's orders, Premier Sun Fo and Foreign Minister Wu Tze-tung, flew off to Shanghai.

There was a growing belief they left because they feared Li and Pai would take action against them. They now are regarded as the chief advocates for fighting on (although Sun recently was supposed to have taken a stand for peace).

The official reason was that Wu and Sun went off to confer with third party leaders on peace moves. No one believed that. The third party leaders already have refused to take part.

On the other hand, one of the government-designated peace delegates, Gen. Chang Chi-chung, flew to Lanchow in northwest China. He was reported pessimistic about any chance for peace.

This, however, was before Li sent his message (presumably by radio) to Mao.

A well-informed source, who furnished a translation of the message, said Li had appealed to Mao as a fellow revolutionary, saying both the Nationalists and the Communists had worked for a "peoples' revolution as envisaged by the Chinese people."

Secretary Delays His Testimony

Labor Committee Calls Off Session Until Further Notice; None Explains

Conflict Is Seen

Two Major Points Are Reported as Being at Variance

Washington, Jan. 28 (AP)—The Administration's labor bill bogged down somewhere today and Secretary of Labor Tobin's appearance at the Capitol to explain it was put off.

Tobin had been booked to blueprint repeal of the hotly-disputed Taft-Hartley law, starting at 10 a. m. (Eastern standard time).

Thirty minutes before that time, the Labor Committee canceled the session "until further notice."

A clerk said she could not explain the cancellation. She said she did not know whether Tobin asked for it.

At the Labor Department, a spokesman said the draft of a new labor bill requested from Tobin had not yet gone to the Capitol. Tobin's appearance was postponed until the proposed measure was in the hands of the Senate Labor Committee, the official said.

A cabinet meeting was scheduled for the hour when the committee was to meet. Any disagreements which may have developed over the administration proposals for amending the Wagner act could have been up for airing at that time.

There were two major points of conflict in the amendments which Tobin had worked up for the administration.

They were the shifting of the new-independent conciliation service to the Labor Department, and the use of injunctions to halt national emergency strikes.

Cyrus S. Ching, director of the conciliation agency which was taken out of the Labor Department by the Taft-Hartley Act, was reported ready to resign if the service is placed under Tobin's jurisdiction.

Use of injunctions to block big strikes like those of John L. Lewis coal miners has been criticized by all labor union spokesmen.

Finishing touches on the measure were to have been completed yesterday.

The secretary's theme already has been written for him by President Truman. The Chief Executive on January 6, told Congress he wants the Taft-Hartley measure repealed and the old Wagner Act restored with "certain improvements."

Sketches 'Improvements'

Mr. Truman at that time sketched the "improvements" he has in mind. The committee expected Tobin to go into detail and submit legislation designed to carry out the administration program.

Temper of the committee members already were frayed as a result of more than two hours of furious Senate debate yesterday over the Taft-Hartley issue.

Tobin and his aides worked long into last night whipping the program requested by Mr. Truman into shape. In preparing a cabinet officer consulted with the White House and union leaders, besides his own staff.

From those sources came this forecast of how they thought the program might look, barring last minute changes:

Jurisdictional strikes—A ban on them, with provision for the National Labor Relations Board to try for settlement of such disputes. The most common kind of jurisdictional strike is a dispute between unions over which should handle certain work.

Secondary boycotts—A provision to outlaw them.

Scott Has Slim Hold

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 28 (AP)—Hugh D. Scott, Jr., held a shaky lead of authority over the Republican National Committee today in a trial run of his chairmanship.

Some members, like Rep. Clarence Brown of Ohio, thought it might be no more than six months before Scott's hard-won retention of his office is challenged again.

The 48-year-old Pennsylvania congressman, hand-picked by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey for his party job had a slender 54 to 30 vote of committee confidence hanging on his belt.

Harry Darby of Kansas, one of Scott's chief supporters in the bitterest fight to split the Republican party since the Bull Moose movement of 1912, told a reporter things are a lot better than they look on the surface.

"I think he'll do a swell job and all of this will be forgotten," Darby declared.

But Brown, a supporter of Senator Robert A. Taft, wasn't so sure.

"I don't think any chairman who finds his committee divided about 50-50 is going to be happy," the Ohio congressman told a reporter.

"I don't think it will be six months before this matter is brought up again in some form," Brown added.

Rep. Leonard Hall, carrying the proxy of J. Russell Sprague, New York committeeman and one of Dewey's brain trust in the 1948 campaign, said he thinks Scott will do all right.

But he added that if the chairman's foot slips, the wolves will be around to howl for his scalp.

Rep. H. Carl Andersen (R-Minn.) said that because of the 54 to 30 result Scott should resign "for the good of everybody concerned."

Andersen is from the home state of Roy E. Dunn, national committeeman who had been the candidate of veteran members of the committee like Jacob France of Maryland.

France charged in yesterday's acrimonious windup session of this corn belt G.O.P. conference that Scott was playing the game in such a way as to help Dewey to the White House.

He admitted the Dewey message had been "rather unexpected."

G.O.P. Legislators Jubilant Over Dewey's Aid for Schools

BY BILL DAVIDSON Albany, N. Y., Jan. 28 (AP)—Republican legislators are jubilant over the strategy used by Governor Dewey in proposing a $100,000,000 overall boost in state aid for education.

The unexpected Dewey message to the Senate and Assembly Monday night caught the Democrats flatfooted.

Even many Republicans were surprised.

Only top G.O.P. legislative leaders were informed of the move beforehand. The governor revealed his proposal Sunday night at his weekly meeting with legislative leaders. They were sworn to secrecy.

The governor's proposal was particularly damaging to a prepared statement offered Monday night to newspapermen by Brooklyn Democrat Eugene F. Bannigan before the Assembly convened.

Bannigan has kept the Republican majority under running fire because the governor had not called, prior to Monday, for a substantial aid increase over the $146,000,000 mandated by the 1948 Feinberg Law.

Wachtel and Other Officers Take Over

David Wachtel, a Kingston High School student, was installed as president of the Kingston Boys Club during the ceremonies marking the opening of the club's new headquarters at 139 Greenkill avenue Thursday evening.

Other officers installed were Jack Morris, Myron J. Michael School, vice-president; Ray Van Buren, M.J.M. secretary, and Donald Post, M.J.M., treasurer.

Others taking office were James Taylor and George Raffling, color guards; Richard Peck, historian; Vincent Post, chairman of the entertainment committee; Jerry Krom, sports manager; Harold McElrath, craft foreman, and William Schaffrick, house committee chairman.

The new officers were visited by 47 adults, including Mayor and Mrs. Oscar V. Newkirk; Judge and Mrs. John M. Cushing; District Attorney Louis Bruhn; Katherine M. Murphy, executive secretary of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association; Mrs. William Edelmut; Kenneth Hyatt, former president of the Kingston Outrigger's Association; and Mrs. Barbara Schultz, representing the Junior League of Kingston.

A buffet lunch was served by members of the club, and visitors were conducted through the two-story and basement building which includes a workshop, kitchen, game room, music room, office, art room, and meeting room. The interior of the building has been completely equipped and decorated by club members. Six months' rent has been contributed by the Junior League.

Roads Are Slippery, Ski Slopes Good

A sleet storm last night, followed by rain today made highways slippery but no serious accidents were reported.

About two inches of sleet fell in the mountain area and while a light rain was falling early today at Phoenicia, skiing there was said to be good on the slopes. A prediction of cooler weather and snow by the week-end brought cheer to the ski areas where until last week-end ski conditions had been poor. Last week-end there was a good crowd in the Phoenicia-Pine Hill area.

This morning ski conditions at Simpson slope at Phoenicia were reported good by observers, unless there is considerable rain. It was reported there would be skiing over the week-end. A light fall of new snow would make conditions ideal, it was reported.

Weather permitting, the ski tow will again operate over the week-end.

All Hope Abandoned

Shanghai, Jan. 28 (AP)—Virtually all hope was abandoned today for more than 500 passengers and crewmen of two Chinese ships which collided 100 miles from Shanghai. The Australian destroyer Warramunga picked up 35 survivors, including some crew members of both ships, the collier Kienyuan and the 4,000-ton freighter-passenger ship Taiping. The survivors, including some of the 500 war refugees aboard the Taiping, were landed in Shanghai tonight.

Local Death Record

Word has been received by friends of Dr. Francis J. Dudenhausen, formerly of St. Remy, of his death this week at Bellevue Hospital in New York city. Dr. Dudenhausen, who was well known throughout Ulster county, left St. Remy 10 years ago to make his home in New York. He had been ill in the hospital for some time.

Funeral services for Ida Every of 19 St. James street were held from the W. N. Conner Funeral Home, 296 Fair street, Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Rev. Edward V. Windsor, pastor of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church, officiated. The service were largely attended by relatives and friends. A large number of floral tributes were banished around the casket. Bearers were Tracy Elliott, Fred Zimmer, Louis Every and William Myer. Burial was in Fairview Cemetery, Stone Ridge.

Charlotte Squires Dunham, widow of William Dunham who died less than two months ago, died suddenly Thursday morning at the home of her cousin, Morgan Parker in Hunter, New York. Mrs. Dunham will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. from the home of her nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Higgins, East Jewett. Burial will be in the Maple Wood Cemetery, South Jewett. She also is survived by a nephew and niece, Billy and Dorla Squires, of Hartford, Conn. Several cousins also survive.

Funeral services for Mrs. George O. Combeck, a former resident of Kingston, were held January 18 from St. Thomas A.M.E. Zion Church, Somerville, N. Y. Burial took place in New Cemetery, Somerville. Mrs. Combeck, the former Jennie Van Allen, was the daughter of the late Captain Jack Van Allen, well-known boatman of the Hudson river. Several years ago Mr. and Mrs. Combeck and family moved to Somerville. She is survived by her husband, George Combeck; a daughter, Mrs. Arthur Van Liew of Somerville, N. Y.; several nieces and nephews and two grandsons.

Funeral services for Irving J. Craver of 163 Green street, a retired telephone employee, were held this afternoon from the W. N. Conner Funeral Home. The Rev. Merrill C. Johnson, pastor of St. James Methodist Church, officiated. Many relatives, friends and fellow employees of the New York Telephone Company attended and a large number of floral pieces banked around the casket indicated the high esteem in which the deceased was held. Thursday evening members of the telephone company and the Pioneer Life Club of the New York Telephone Company attended in a body and offered condolences to the bereaved family. Bearers were H. S. Venechell, W. M. Hornbeck, P. E. Johnson, William Piper, all employees of the telephone company. Burial was in Hurley cemetery, where the Rev. Mr. Johnson gave final committal services. Mr. Craver is survived by his wife, Ina J. Craver, and by three sons, Herbert S., of Auburn, Richard I. and George L. Craver, both of this city.

Funeral services for William F. Keenan of Saugerties were held at the Keenan & Son Funeral Home, Saugerties, N. Y., Thursday, at 9:30 a. m. and from St. Mary's Church at 10 a. m. where a high Mass of requiem was offered by the Rev. Raymond A. Hyland with the Rev. Edmund T. Hart within the church. Responses to the Mass were sung by the children's choir. Soloist John Keely assisted at the organ by Mrs. William Johnson. Many friends attended the requiem. During the day's remains reposed at the funeral home, many called to offer sympathy and condolence to the bereaved family. Thursday the Rev. Father Hart visited the funeral home and recited prayers for the dead. Wednesday evening St. Mary's Holy Name Society assisted Father Hyland in the recitation of the Rosary. There were many beautiful floral tributes and Mass cards. Bearers were William R. Johnson, Arthur Lamb, Gene Johnson, John Thomas, Thomas Buono and Russell O'Dea. Members of the village board were honorary bearers, Mayor Frank P. Clum, William Doyle, Frank Hughes and William Kelley. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery, where final absolution and blessing were given by Fathers Hart and Hyland.

Speakers at Horticultural Dinner

Members of the Horticultural Society attending the dinner of the organization in the Governor Clinton Hotel, Thursday evening, heard interesting talks by these speakers. From left are D. W. Dalrymple, secretary of the society; Albert W. Densmore, president; Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk; Conrad J. Heiselman, former mayor, who was toastmaster; the Rev. George W. Chant, pastor of the Methodist Church, Poughkeepsie, featured orator. (Freeman Photo) was a captain. We went on the hunt," he said.

He told his experiences of riding an elephant, seeing hundreds of eyes peering out from the jungle at him, and the various mishaps during the hunt which ended one tiger.

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk extended to the group an invitation to come back to Kingston for its meeting next year.

First Meeting in 1936

C. J. Heiselman, toastmaster, recalled that the society held its first meeting in Kingston in 1936, during his administration as mayor. Looking back on that term of office, the former mayor said, "I don't believe I can remember anything so good as getting you to come back every year as long as I live."

Heiselman received a storm of applause when, addressing the group as "fellow horticulturalists," he announced that about a year ago he bought a farm in the Catskill mountains and has planted 11 apple trees.

He said that when he was mayor, all he knew about apples was that he liked his apple sauce. However, he noticed that the horticulturalists were happy and pleasant people in spite of the difficulties encountered in raising apples, and that he determined to become a farmer, even if on a minor scale.

His experiences in starting his farm proved to be very entertaining to the more experienced growers attending the dinner.

First, he had a neighbor plow the field. Then he looked at the field, and "I've been carting stone ever since," he said. Of the bugs and insects, he wondered, "How did they ever find their way up in the mountains. I think some of my spray dealer friends brought them up in a bottle under cover of darkness."

The toastmaster was given another ovation when he said, "As soon as I raise my first apple, I want to join up. The day will come when I'll be able to discuss intelligently with you fellows some of these problems."

Names of the winners of the 4-H Future Farmers of America, and Junior Boys groups contests were announced by Gerard Maier of Middlehope. He pointed out that the junior group contests, neglected during the war, are now being expanded, and he expressed his hope that they will be continued and even further expanded.

Results Announced

Results of a McIntosh flavor contest were announced by John Lyman of Connecticut. Winner of the first prize of $15 was E. Stuart Hubbard, Jr., Poughkeepsie. Second prize of $10 went to Marcel Mulvey of Port and third prize of $5 to Alexander Stuart of Boston Spa.

Entertainment was provided by Mrs. Clementine Nessel on the accordion, vocals by Mrs. Arthur Kurtz, and magic by Fred Van Deusen.

A. W. Densmore, new president of the New York State Agricultural Society, presided at the banquet.

During a business session held at the armory Thursday afternoon, Donald F. Green, retiring president, urged a greater spirit of cooperation and understanding among those who handle and market our fruit and the growers.

Kingston Quarters Are More Plentiful

The Kingston Chamber of Commerce, through Albert Kurtz, executive secretary, today expressed deep satisfaction over the way accommodations were handled for delegates and visitors to the show in the state armory sponsored by the New York State Horticultural Society.

Kurtz told a reporter that the appeal for additional rooms to relieve hotels was answered by more than 75 private home owners with extra sleeping quarters and by operators of tourist homes.

Although many who intended to stay longer at the show left when Wednesday's snowstorm was imminent, many newcomers found themselves without accommodations. Those who made contact with the Chamber of Commerce for assistance were able to get rooms, Kurtz said.

Because less than a third of the rooms offered were actually used, the C. of C. is confident that Kingston has a lot more room for convention guests than had been recorded in the past.

Daniel Dalrymple, secretary of the Horticultural Society, informed Kurtz last night that attendance records were broken on Thursday with between 1200 and 1500 persons in attendance at one time. Wednesday about 700 noon meals were served at the armory.

Social Security and labor problems were subjects of discussion following the business session Thursday afternoon.

T. N. Hurd of the department of agricultural economics of Cornell told how the expansion of Social Security, Old Age and Survivor's Insurance will effect agriculture.

John A. Hall of Lockport, chairman of the New York State Labor Association pointed out possible labor problems which farmers may encounter in the near future.

Also Thursday afternoon, L. J. Brann, Cornell entomologist, spoke on new developments in fruit farm machinery, emphasizing the new spray rigs.

This morning's program stressed control of the red banded leaf roller. After viewing a moving picture on the subject, discussions of various aspects were led by Charles E. Palm, Cornell; P. J. Chapman and Edward Glass, both of Geneva, and J. Wessels, Ten Broeck of Hudson. Control of the 2-spotted mite and apple maggot was discussed by Ralph W. Dean of Poughkeepsie and E. H. Smith of Cornell outlined recommended programs for insect control in the Hudson valley in 1949.

The closing session began at 1:30 p. m. today with a discussion on such small fruits as raspberries, strawberries, currants, grapes, by specialists from Geneva and Cornell. At 2 p. m. a discussion-meeting on cold storage operation and construction was scheduled under R. M. Smock of Ithaca and Harold E. Gray of Ithaca, and the final meeting at 2:30 p. m. was to be a discussion of peach problems by Donald Hamilton of Poughkeepsie and E. H. Smith of Cornell University. The program is scheduled to officially close at 3 p. m.

Apple Pie Queens Pose at Show

the waterfront, close to the heart of Boston's financial district.

Many persons were reported knocked down and injured as they scrambled for a stairway leading to the street. Others injured were construction workers who were changing the entrance to the old station whose two story superstructure was a landmark in the district.

Police credited an unidentified person with sizing up the disaster swiftly and leading most of the passengers to safety along a subway platform to another emergency stairway exit.

First reports said a fire in the shaft of one of four elevators in the station may have started from acetylene torches being used by workmen.

Two elevators were still in use for passengers during the construction.

The station—deep underground—is the first on the Boston side of the under-harbor tunnel linking Boston with East Boston.

All trains in the tunnel, which runs from Maverick Square to Bowdoin Square, were halted. Power was shut off while fire apparatus crowded into the area and firemen battled the flames—reportedly started by a worker's acetylene torch.

Ambulances and stretcher bearers swarmed into a vast traffic-jangle on the surface where smoke poured upward through the subway superstructure at State street and Atlantic avenue.

Power in the tunnel was restored in about an hour.

Big Plant Wrecked

Boston, Jan. 28 (AP)—Fire and a series of ten violent explosions today wrecked the big plant of the U. S. Gypsum Plant at Mystic Docks, in the Charlestown section.

The Chief John F. McDonough estimated loss at $125,000.

The lives of firemen battling the raging, resin-fueled flames were constantly endangered by the blasts which sent brick, mortar and other debris hurtling through the air.

The city's three fireboats, aiding a large concentration of land apparatus summoned by three alarms, poured many tons of sea water into the burning four-story structure.

Before the fire was controlled, the roof of the rambling 500-foot building was blown out.

Two Are Injured

New York, Jan. 28 (AP)—A man and his wife were injured when they jumped from a second-floor window after dropping their three children to safety during a fire in south Brooklyn early today.

About 20 other residents were driven from their apartments and some were rescued by aerial ladders. Fire officials said the fire appeared to be of suspicious origin and notified police.

Appeal Is Filed

New York, Jan. 28 (AP)—Counsel for Martin James Monti, who confessed to treason and is serving a prison term, filed a notice of appeal from the sentence yesterday.

Lloyd Paul Stryker, counsel for the 27-year-old former army air force lieutenant, filed notice with U. S. Attorney Vincent Keogh in Brooklyn that the case will be appealed from the Federal District Court in the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals.

De Facto Recognition

Bern, Switzerland, Jan. 28 (AP)—The Swiss Federal Council today empowered the political department to accord de facto recognition to Israel. The political department is expected to complete the formalities within the next few days. De facto recognition means acknowledgment that a state exists in fact, and differs from full, or de jure, recognition. Twenty-three nations already have recognized Israel.

One gallon of gasoline, properly mixed with air, is equivalent to 85 pounds of dynamite.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 28 (AP)—Steel shares dragged other stocks into lower price ground in today's market.

Declines of fractions to well over a point were posted for numerous issues before the price curve leveled off. A fair amount of business was done.

Wall Street remained in a gloomy mood—which was little relieved by Bethlehem Steel's record 1948 earnings—over failure of U. S. Steel Corp.'s special dividend and stock split-up proposal to inspire more general interest in the market. Bethlehem Steel's earnings were reported after the close yesterday.

The steels made a half-hearted comeback after a morning decline yesterday but there was no follow-through today.

Among the losers were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, National General Motors, Goodrich, General Motors, Goodrich, Telephone, North American Co., Air Reduction, General Electric, duPont, Allied Chemical, J. C. Penney, Radio Corp., U. S. Gypsum, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Illinois Central, Superior Oil of California, and Gulf Oil.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Jan. 28—Social events in the north reservoir country this week include the song-fest and cafeteria supper at the Shokan Reformed Church Friday evening and the big dance at Chalet Indian, Boiceville, on Saturday-night. Proceeds from both affairs will be given to the March of Dimes fund.

Wilbur Sherwood, one of Poughkeepsie's younger businessmen, was a caller in the village center Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Weeks were saddened recently by the loss of their angora cat. The animal upon examination by a Kingston doctor was found to have a protruding bone in its throat.

Charles H. Weidman of Kingston was a guest at the James H. Shaker home Wednesday.

Gordon A. Craig, Sr., recently honored through his election as imperial representative to the sessions of the Imperial Shrine in Chicago, is a scion of old South Olive stock. One of his ancestors, Gordon Craig, was an early storekeeper in the Olive Bridge-Krumville sector and first supervisor of the Town of Olive.

Jack Tandy, one of the Ashokan Atomic baseball stars, is employed at Kingston laundry.

Wolfgang Adels, well known local baseball twirler, is having a birthday on Sunday, Jan. 30. One of three sons of John and Emmy Adels of the Ontario Trail, Wolfgang is an army veteran and while in the service he trained for the Military Police at Fort Custer, Mich., where he was given the important assignment of patrolling the camp as driver of a jeep. Another birthday coming will be 82 years old on Saturday, Jan. 29, Mrs. Beldin, a resident of Flint, Mich., for many years past, was born in Olive, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rogers of South Hollow.

Robert "Bob" DuBois, local baseball club official, and his wife, the former Margaret Grossman, have a cocker spaniel who not only carries off rubbers and other articles left lying on the family porch, but is an accomplished retriever as well. Recently, the dog brought home a coil of telephone wire which he had picked up along the Trail.

Mrs. Mose Every, Kingston resident who died Tuesday morning, resided in the old village of West Shokan many years ago. The former Ida Hinkley's home in early life was near the Bakeman brook on the west side of the Esopus Creek.

Grace Elmendorf, K.H.S. senior and Ashokan M. E. Church worker, was numbered among the students who picked up a bit of spending money during the examinations vacation by shoveling snow for residents of the twin villages.

The flowline of the Ashokan east basin has finally begun to approach the spillway crest. It is hoped that it will greatly deplete supply and large acreage, filled up slowly as a result of the early winter rains. The west basin reached normal flowline some time ago and the big city is thus assured of plenty of water for the remainder of the winter.

The trucking of ash logs through the village continues; the timber comes from somewhere up the trail and presumably is bound for the mill and plant in Kingston. At least one big Shandaken sawmill is reported to be handling hard maple in considerable quantity, a part of the stock being shipped to plants manufacturing wooden shoe heels.

About the Folks

Louis Beeres, 107 West Chester street was admitted to the Kingston Hospital, Wednesday, for treatment of a heart condition. It was reported today that he is showing "slight improvement" but is still "quite ill."

Guard Has Nursery

London (AP)—Oh, baby! A heavy artillery regiment of Britain's Territorial Army (National Guard) has started a nursery in its London Drill Hall. Officers explained that the nursery ought to help the reserves recruiting campaign. Men are quicker to join up and turn out for weekly drills, they said, if they can bring along children and also their wives—for whom a social room has been set up.

Bird Mimics Plane

Sydney, Australia, (AP)—The lyrebird of Australia, one of the world's greatest mimics, moves with the times. On a brown mountain in New South Wales recently a Sydney man thought he heard an airplane flying low overhead. He found the sound came from a lyrebird on a dead log higher up on the mountain side.

The World Today

By DeWITT MacKENZIE
A.P. Foreign Affairs Analyst
President Truman's idealistic project of aiding backward countries is described by Secretary of State Acheson as a proposal for raising living standards in order to promote political improvements and greater liberty. It would use material means for a non-material end.

Already talks are in progress between United Nations economists and the State Department on the implications of Mr. Truman's idea. Over in Europe British Foreign Secretary Bevin pledges that England will join the United States in an all out "answer-to-Communism" crusade against poverty in Africa and the east.

Thus we are beginning to move from the broad conception of the idea towards concrete definition and details for implementation. The process now going on, I imagine, perhaps very like that which Thomas A. Edison pursued in arriving at an invention like the "talking machine." One can almost hear Edison say to himself:

"The world needs a machine that can record spoken language and repeat it. Therefore we shall create a talking machine."

So with an idea as the starting point he began the research which resulted in the machine. Maybe it didn't happen that way—but it could have. Many of the world's greatest developments started as visions.

Ideals Count

And don't let anybody tell you ideals don't count. They're about the only things that do count.

One of my early introductions to this thought came back in World War I when I was attached to British general headquarters in France as war correspondent. The morale of many of the troops was buoyed up by the idealism of Woodrow Wilson in his call for self-determination of small nations and for making the world safe for democracy. Day after day as I went up and down the fighting front British officers would stop me and ask eagerly: "What does President Wilson say today?"

Such morale is needed as much today as it is in war.

But to get back to this thought of helping under-privileged peoples. You can't imagine how many folks fall in that category until you've traveled abroad.

I've knocked about a lot in the western hemisphere, in Europe and in Asia. I've been in so many countries I don't know their number offhand. But I can tell you from personal observation that there are literally hundreds of millions of unfortunates who rarely if ever even have enough to eat. Many are literally primitive peoples living centuries behind our time.

Must Help Others

But doesn't charity begin at home? Sure it does, and we've got a lot of inequalities to iron out here in America. Moreover, we haven't any money to throw away.

However, that needn't prevent consideration of the idea of helping the other fellow, especially since by strengthening him we may help defeat Bolshevik aggression.

In this connection Secretary Acheson has made an important declaration. He says that very great reservoirs of private capital are available to back the President's proposal. However, this capital can't be brought into use unless foreign nations create conditions under which investors may "fairly" employ their money.

The greatest distress of course is in the backward countries of Africa and Asia. In many areas which I have visited death and starvation daily take a terrible toll of life.

Hunger is accepted as an inevitability. Those who die are lucky. It is the living who are the unfortunates.

Naturally it is amidst such distress that Communism frequently gets a hold. So would any otherism which preached hope. It is the straw at which the drowning clutch.

The President's thesis, I take it, is that the best way to fight Communism is to remove this distress in which it flourishes.

Strike Averted

New York, Jan. 28 (AP)—A strike called for midnight on two Queens bus lines was averted last night three hours before the deadline. The last-minute agreement was reached among representatives of the C.I.O. Transport Workers Union, Local 100, and of the Queens-Nassau and the Steinway Bus Companies.

Radio Series by Episcopal Church

This evening the distinguished actor Walter Abel will star in "The Goose Hangs High," adapted for radio from the play by Lewis Beach, to be broadcast over Station WKNY at 8 p. m.

Sponsored by families of the Protestant Episcopal Church and the Episcopal Actors' Guild, "The Goose Hangs High" is the 18th presentation in the radio series, Great Scenes from Great Plays.

The church's message from this play for people everywhere without church affiliation is that—through the sound Christian training found in Sunday schools and in church membership—millions of families have grown together in the inner strength and harmony that is the basis of real living happiness.

UNION CENTER

Union Center, Jan. 27—The Union Center Chapel Sunday School Association will hold its annual meeting in the chapel on February 1 at 8 p. m. All interested in the work of the association are invited. There will be election of officers and a social.

There will be no Sunday evening services on January 30 because the Rev. Mr. Barnes will be at Hyde Park taking part in the Roosevelt Memorial services. The Union Center congregation is invited to attend the rites in the Hyde Park Reformed Church.

The Sadagorsky farm has been sold to Mr. Wagner of Stone Ridge. He will make his home here.

State Finds Big Sum Annually in Florida Sunshine

New York, Jan. 28 (AP)—New York state is finding $1,500,000 a year in Florida's sunshine.

A spokesman for the State Labor Department said today that this amount was saved last year by investigating workers who lost their jobs and fled wintry winds to loaf on warm beaches with the aid of unemployment insurance funds.

In leaving their fields of employment, many workers were disqualified on the ground they applied for and received paychecks while making no attempt to get new jobs.

As fast as they were caught, payments were stopped.

Last year, Florida officials aided in tracking down "chiselers" but withdrew from this work last December because of lack of funds. New York state immediately set up a Miami office with six investigators swinging into action.

In two weeks recently, the New York staff disqualified 119 workers and suspended payments to 123 others pending further investigation. Last week, 1,500 New Yorkers had applications on file in Florida and 1,060 received checks.

During the fiscal year 1947-48, New York state expended $172,409,661 in unemployment payments with an estimated loss through fraud of about one per cent, a spokesman said.

Payments in Florida were comparatively small because checks were sent to about 18,000 workers scattered through many states. Officials said many of the workers who bask in the Florida sunshine are seasonal workers who make good wages and can afford vacations during the off-season.

New York officials believe that within a short while fraudulent payments in Florida will vanish.

Since we have begun our work, many of the phones have been scared away," the spokesman said.

The average payment for all types of work is $22 a week, and the maximum length of payments must not exceed 26 weeks.

A spokesman said that about 20 per cent of workers applying for unemployment compensation never collect it because they manage to get other jobs before the claims are certified.

The fund is financed by employers who pay into it three per cent of the workers' wages.

Westminster Abbey was originally the church of an old Benedictine Abbey built in the seventh century.

who makes Central Hudson expansion possible? INVESTORS DO . . .

They invest in Central Hudson securities and we use the money to build new plants and to add to our equipment to better serve everybody, including the extension of our services to new homes and new industries in the area.

On the other hand, the money you pay us for gas and electricity is used for wages, taxes, to pay interest to investors for the use of their money, for depreciation and other operating costs.

Over the past few years Central Hudson has spent many millions on its construction program . . . catching up with the construction we couldn't do during the war. It was necessary that we do this. Everybody's appetite for gas and electric service has been getting bigger day after day, year after year . . . in towns and on farms, in homes and in industry. Within the next few months Central Hudson must find $2,000,000 of new money from investors as a part of the many millions required, to carry on its expansion program.

That's the way it happens . . . investors make possible more and better gas and electric service for everyone!

SWEDISH NEUTRALITY
Some of the carefully conducted discussions which are expected to lead to the formation of a North Atlantic defense pact concern the traditional neutrality of Sweden. Denmark and Norway are considered to be in favor of entering such a pact, but are unwilling to do so as long as Sweden remains aloof. At a recent three-nation conference in Karlstad, the Scandinavian countries discussed the possibility of a separate alliance of their own, and are understood to be considering a request to the United States for military supplies on that basis.

Sweden's attitude has always been based on an unwillingness to enter a pact which would entail operations far from her own soil. Other unstated reasons for neutrality may have to do with her economic relationship with Russia, and with her geographical position. Sweden was unable to maintain a factually neutral position in the last war, although the country did not become formally involved or committed to one side or the other. But in fact Sweden was captive to German policy. If there should be another war, probably it would be still more difficult to maintain neutrality. This is a point which causes much thought in the Scandinavian countries.

HOSPITAL ADMINISTRATOR
The Poughkeepsie New Yorker in a recent issue editorially states that those persons who have come to know William B. Sheldon and to appreciate his work at Vassar Brothers Hospital are delighted with the recognition that has been accorded him. Associated with Vassar Hospital for the last 23 years and, since 1928, its assistant administrator, Mr. Sheldon on February 1 will begin his duties as administrator of the Kingston Hospital.

Native of this city, he has received an earned reward for the many years he has devoted to hospital work. After he was graduated from Poughkeepsie High School he attended institutes in hospital administration, purchasing and accounting. Mr. Sheldon joined the staff of the local hospital as a bookkeeper and, through his ability and enthusiasm was elevated to the position of assistant administrator. Now, authorities of the Kingston institution have further recognized his knowledge and ability in the field of hospital administration. Mr. Sheldon's friends and colleagues here wish him good luck in his new duties. And Kingston Hospital is to be congratulated.

RIGHTS OF OWNERS
Owning a piece of property does not always mean that the owner can do what he pleases with it. A New York court has just ruled that this is true of authors' manuscripts. Two New Yorkers owned an unpublished manuscript of Mark Twain's "A Murder, A Mystery and A Marriage," written in 1876 but apparently never fully developed. They sought to publish it, but the trustees of Mark Twain's estate objected, and got a ruling from the court that ownership of a manuscript does not necessarily include the right of publication. Mark Twain seems to have kept pretty close track of his manuscripts, and to have appreciated fully their monetary value. The court ruling is general, however. Anyone who has possession of unpublished manuscripts by noted authors may find that the only way in which he can realize a return on them is to sell them.

FOR EFFECTIVE DEFENSE
It is said in Washington that the Hoover Commission will officially add its voice to those which are urging that the administration of the Department of Defense be strengthened. The step being widely recommended would make the secretary of defense the executive head of the defense establishment, and would make the civilian chiefs of the Army, Navy and Air Force undersecretaries rather than cabinet members as they now are. There is much belief that this step would be the key to real unification of the services,

JUDGE YANKWICH
Among curiosities of Americana is the action of Federal Judge Leon R. Yankwich in the instance of Lester Cole, Hollywood writer, who refused to testify before the House Committee on Un-American Activities whether he was a Communist. Cole was discharged by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Eric Johnston, president of Motion Pictures Association of America, Inc., intervened to indicate that his industry had to clean house. Cole sued in Yankwich's court and won his case. Judge Yankwich violently attacked Eric Johnston, to which the latter replied: "What actually happened, as I testified, is that I presented the producers with two alternatives: either they could employ persons thought by the public to be Communists and defend their employment, or they could dismiss them. The choice was up to the producers, and I told them it was up to them to fish or cut bait. The decision was entirely theirs and they made it unambiguously." "The judge said my attitude was dogmatic, doctrinaire and absolutist." "I want to repeat what I have said many times: I would not employ a known Communist in a responsible position." "In this attitude I find myself in reputable company. The government of the United States will not employ Communists; our national labor unions are purging Communists from positions of leadership. This is my position. I intend to stand by it." In the course of the trial, Judge Yankwich asked the M.G.M. lawyer whether he knew of any law which required a witness to answer "yes" or "no" to a question. Of course, the lawyer knew of no such law, but a witness must be responsive. It is his right to be evasive, dilatory, untruthful, not his right to answer in such a manner that he is placed in a favorable light, but he is not privileged to lie. The judge knew all that when he asked the question. Lester Cole had appeared before the House Committee on Un-American Activities along with nine other Hollywood witnesses, who nicknamed themselves "unfriendly witnesses." He put on this performance. "Stripling, Mr. Cole, are you now or have you ever been a member of the Communist party?" "Mr. Cole, I would like to answer that question as well; I would be very happy to. I believe the reason the question is being asked is that because at the present time there is an election in the Screen Writers Guild in Hollywood that for 15 years Mr. McGuinness and others— "The Chairman, I didn't even know there was an election out there. Go ahead and answer the question. Are you a member of the Communist party?" "Mr. Cole, if you didn't know there is an election there you didn't hear Mr. Lavery's testimony yesterday." "The Chairman, There were some parts I didn't hear." "Mr. Cole, I am sorry, but I would like to put it into the record that there is an election there." "The Chairman, All right, there is an election there. Now, answer the question, are you a member of the Communist party?" "Mr. Cole, Can I answer that in my own way, please? May I please? Can I have the right to answer?" "The Chairman, You are American, aren't you?" "Mr. Cole, Yes, I certainly am, and it states so in my statement." "The Chairman, Then you ought to be very proud to answer the question." "Mr. Cole, I am very proud to answer the question, and I will at times when I feel it is proper." "The Chairman, It would be very simple to answer." "Mr. Cole, It is very simple to answer the question." "Mr. Chairman, You bet." "Mr. Cole, (continuing). And at times when I feel it is proper I will, but I wish to stand on my rights of association." "It is obvious from the above that Lester Cole dodged, trimmed, evaded, wise-cracked—but he did not answer. It would have been simpler and more honest had he said: 'I refuse to answer.' It would have been still simpler had he said, 'yes' or 'no.' The fact stands that the trial took the position throughout that Cole was right; that the House Committee on Un-American Activities was wrong; that Eric Johnston was wrong; that M.G.M. was wrong. FOOD ALLERGY IN ASTHMATIC CHILDREN
Research workers in asthma will be the first to admit that there are certain foods to which asthmatics are allergic or sensitive, but state that the number of cases of asthma due to food allergy is not large, is but a small percentage of the cases due to allergy. In my student days, the cause of asthma was unknown; today it is known that most cases are caused by patients being allergic to pollen, house dust, furs, feathers and foods. The other most common cause is disturbances and defects of the nose and throat. Unfortunately, because of some defect or chronic infection of the nose and throat, treatment by surgery or X-rays is given but asthmatic attacks continue; whereas had tests for allergy first been given, surgery of other treatment would have been found unnecessary. Physicians today do not advise as much surgery on the lining of the nose as in former days, as this lining is Nature's best protection from colds, pneumonia and bronchitis pneumonia. Generally speaking, it has been found that in asthma and hay fever, whereas where the lining is red or inflamed, infection—not allergy—is the cause of the symptoms. Regarding foods as the cause of asthma in children, Dr. Lewis Webb Hill, Boston, in "Bulletin of Johns Hopkins Hospital," states that because an attack of asthma occurs at times after eating a certain food, it does not mean that this particular food is the cause. "Being sensitive to food, although always a possibility in asthmatic children, is relatively of little importance in comparison with sensitivity to pollen and other substances in the air or with infections of the nose, throat and bronchial tubes." While any food may cause asthma, not many do. The foods most often causing asthma are fish, eggs, walnuts, peanuts and chocolate. Other foods to which children sometimes are sensitive are wheat and milk, two of our most nourishing foods. For years, physicians have made scratch tests in which suspected food was placed in the scratch and kept there with adhesive tape. However, have children may be sensitive to a food and yet have no asthmatic attacks was proved at Allergy Clinic, Children's Hospital, Boston. Of 100 asthmatic children between the ages of three and twelve, 35 had reactions to one or more foods, yet only seven had asthmatic attacks. Asthma, Causes and Treatment The cause or causes of asthma were unknown until recently. Now it is known that allergy, nose and throat defects, emotional disturbances, can cause the attacks, most asthmatics can be helped. The Washington Merry-Go-Round
By Drew Pearson

Washington — Certain Democratic senators are boiling mad at the State Department and even linked at the White House for trying to tell them not to support United Nations policy regarding the Dutch in Indonesia. The incident is extremely significant. It may indicate what some diplomats have suspected, that the State Department was talking loud about forcing the Dutch to pipe down in Indonesia, while playing footsie with the Dutch under the table. Here's the inside story of what happened. Last week, twelve senators drafted a resolution vigorously supporting United States' and United Nations' positions regarding Dutch highhandedness in Indonesia. Most of the resolution simply repeated the U. S.-U.N. demands that the Dutch release political prisoners and retreat to their original lines. Then the senators added one more clause. They proposed that if Holland did not comply with U. S.-U.N. demands, all Marshall Plan aid be cut off to both the Dutch East Indies and Holland. The United States has already cut off E.C.A. aid to the Dutch East Indies but not to Holland. When the State Department heard about this, however, Acting Secretary of State Lovett slipped over to the White House and sounded the alarms. The White House then phoned Senate Secretary Les Biffle, who in turn called Senate majority leader Scott Lucas of Illinois, plus Senators Pepper of Florida and Johnson of Colorado. The resolution, the senators were told, would be most embarrassing. They were asked to kill it. Are Senators Puppets? No explanation was given as to why the State Department was opposed, since the resolution was almost identical with the position already taken by the State Department at Lake Success. Nevertheless, the senators were asked to desist. Senator Pepper, who has just become a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and who is on intimate terms with the President, asked that his name be withdrawn. Most others stuck by their guns. Remarkable Senator Chavez of New Mexico: "What do they expect us to do—just appropriate the money for 'em?" "I can't recall," observed Ed Johnson of Colorado, "that the Senate has abdicated its right to ratify treaties and play its constitutional part in foreign policy." Note—Other Senators who signed the resolution included: Hill and Sparkman of Alabama; Magnuson of Washington; Fillette of Iowa; Kilgore and Neely of West Virginia; Murray of Montana; Malone of Nevada (Rep.). How Dutch Finance War A significant conversation has been taking place in Europe. The Dutch have told Field Marshal Montgomery that they can't afford to assume their proportionate responsibility under the Defense Pact because of the heavy cost of military operations in Indonesia. Indonesian operations for one year cost the Dutch $436,000,000. During that same year, the Dutch received $476,000,000 of Marshall Plan money from us. In other words, the U.S.A. really is paying for the war in Indonesia, yet the Dutch claim they can't keep their share of the Western Bloc Defense Pact. Note—Inside reason why some State Department officials are jittery about pushing the Dutch too far in Indonesia is for fear they'll pull out of the Defense Pact. If so, point out realistic diplomats, where else can the Dutch go into the arms of Russia, with 90 per cent of their population vigorously anti-Russian? Electricity Famine President Truman was talking to Senator Magnuson and Representative Hugh Mitchell of Washington about a proposed deal with Canada for water storage in British Columbia, from which the Pacific Northwest could draw hydroelectric power. The Northwest power shortage, they told the President, Truman was looking for a place to store the files of the election-baited House Small Business Committee, they discovered a box which once contained impeachment records of President Andrew Johnson in 1868. Liberal Congressman John Dingell of Michigan hasn't bought a new pair of shoes in 10 years. "Wish I could say the same for my kids," says Dingell, who has three. The White House is wondering if the stunning Senate defeat of the resolution exempting inaugural tickets from taxation may be a harbinger of things to come on such issues as taxation, civil rights and health insurance. The House passed the inaugural-ticket exemption by a two-thirds majority, but Senate Democrats couldn't even muster a simple majority, losing 47 to 45. Four Democrats were absent and five (Byrd, Va.; Chapman, Ky.; Johnson, Colo.; McClellan, Ark. and Russell, Ga.) voted with the Republicans. (Copyright, 1949, The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Senate Republicans' Decision on Majority Vote to Stop Debate Is Viewed as Long-Range Error
By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 28—The Republicans in the Senate are about to make a mistake which will rise to plague them for years to come and may make such a fundamental change in congressional government as to bring forth a demand for a single instead of a two-House system. The Republicans have lined up behind a move which will permit a majority to shut off debate. Some Republicans favor a simple majority and others have two-thirds to apply cloture on those procedural points not covered by the present rule whereby debate is limited in part. But in either event, it would be possible for the minority to be deprived of its right to be heard. For decades the United States Senate has been the one place in the world of free governments where the minority could not be shut down and its chance taken away to be heard fully and comprehensively. Now it is asserted that even the present rule which applies cloture in certain instances but does not really prevent extended debate if members choose to make use of the procedures available to them has been rarely invoked. But if all motions and procedures are to be covered by a two-thirds cloture, it would be a simple matter later on to change it to a majority of those present. The Senate then would become almost identical in its procedure with the House of Representatives, thus making it logical to call for a monarchical or single-house system. Such a plan would place the Senate in the same position as a small population at a serious disadvantage and would abolish the sovereignty of the states for all practical purposes. The real objection to the adoption of any absolute rule to cut off debate is that it encourages the formation of arbitrary and intolerant majorities which can become tyrannical. The argument that recourse can be had at the polls against such a majority fails to the ground, because two thirds of the Senate members do not come up for election each congressional year and it is possible for a majority of two thirds to invoke cloture and not be accountable for as many as four years. If cloture is adopted, then logically the people must have some quicker means of redress than they have today. In the democracy of Canada and other English-speaking governments, the people can overrule their national legislative body at any time. An election can be held to determine if a majority misinterpreted or correctly interpreted the will of the people. In the sense that the adoption of cloture may hasten the day when a constitutional amendment

Do You Remember Questions-Answers
by SOPHIE MILLER

The Plank Road and Mary Powell questions of the January 19th column brought responses from various sources. One note was from a couple, both over 70, who remembered the Plank Road well. The lady was born on the old Plank Road now Wilbur avenue. Another gentleman of 87 vividly recalls the teams of horses pulling heavy wagons carrying bluestone from the old Wilbur quarries over three miles of Kingston's famous Plank Road. Sometimes as many as eight horses were needed. Those were the days when New York city used mostly teams of horses to pull heavy wagons for paving. New Yorkers and Brooklynites suspect that they not only drink our Catskill mountain water but they also may be treading on our own Wilbur quarried bluestone sidewalks. Another gentleman told me that the wagons were often so heavy that they wore deep ruts in the heavy Plank Road, so that bluestone itself was laid in a double-track wagon-wheel width, at the side of the road. But they found that even that could not withstand the weight and constant traffic of these mammoth wagons for any length of time. Toll gates are remembered at the City Hall section, at Wilbur and also near the old Walker farm in Highgate, part of the section still known as the Plank Road. I wonder what the rates were to use this wooden road? Who remembers any of the wagons tipping over, or wheel breaking? It must have been some job to get them to rights without modern derricks. I remember the wagons coming around the Henry street water trough, where the horses got a well-earned drink. I notice there are various answers to the naming of the "Mary Powell." From a Utica, New York newspaper and one from a New York Herald Tribune item it states the "Queen Mary" was named after a Miss Mary Faxon Powell. Her age was around 26 when she christened the steamer in 1902. She died when around 90 or 100. William C. DeWitt, city historian, adds that "The Thomas Powell" steamer came first followed by the "Mary Powell," the most famous of all Hudson steamers, whose record from New York to Rondout was then four hours and two minutes. And says she was named after Mary, daughter of Thomas Powell. I understand Mr. Murdoch, in his Freeman item of Saturday, July 29, 1939, covers this question. I will be glad to give all information I receive on this question, but will leave the decision entirely in the hands of the readers. In the village of Khudorsk, Russia, there are no residents except professional poets. The anti-filibuster movement is really tied up with a movement by the Republicans to win the Negro vote in the north, though, to be sure, a large part of it has gone Democratic for several years notwithstanding the fact that the late President Roosevelt never attempted to force the members of his own party from the Senate to give up their unlimited debate and to jam through Congress any civil rights legislation. The Republicans are the minority party in Congress and filibustering is a weapon of the minority. That's why it seems strange that the Republican leaders are willing to give up the one method left in Congressional procedure by which the arbitrariness of any majority in either party can be held in check. Q—How is it possible to determine the cost of running electrical appliances?
A—The name plate generally gives the power consumption in watts. Convert this to kilowatts (each of which is 1,000 watts) by shifting the decimal point three places to the left and then multiply this by the cost of electricity per kilowatt-hour.

Q—Does all tobacco contain the same amount of nicotine?
A—The percentage of nicotine varies with the kind of tobacco and with the district in which it is grown.

Q—When did women begin wearing earrings?

BABSON on BUSINESS

"FREE FOOD"
Babson Park, Fla., Jan. 28.—While we all are worrying about Russia and World War III, we must not forget that at any time some great revolutionary invention may develop which will take everyone's attention, for awhile, off of capitalism, Communism and every other "ism." I have in mind electronic experiments to greatly reduce the cost of canned fruit, vegetable and other juices whereby the new mineralized electrically enriched product will be more tasty and healthier than the present commercial products.

Photosynthesis Explained
Your value is measured by your energy, although this may be spiritual energy, mental energy or physical energy. This last shows itself in farm work, road and building construction, factory and office jobs and even home cooking or bed making! To develop energy is the reason for eating, drinking and breathing. Upon this need of food for energy, the agriculture of every nation is based and, in fact, exists.

But from where does your energy come? It comes from the sun in a wonderful way. The sun's electrical energy, supplemented by air, water and minerals, is stored by photosynthesis in the vegetable products which we eat. After eating, by a reverse process, this sun's energy is turned back again into human energy by electrical forces within our bodies. This is the entire story if you are a vegetarian. In case you eat meat, fish, eggs, etc., then there is also another intermediate process; but even then your energy really comes from the sun.

Sun, water and air are already free. Hence, it will be necessary only to spend a very little for minerals and certain electric rays—to create human energy. This might make it unnecessary for us to eat the products of the soil except for bulk and as luxuries. Our appetites would be satisfied electronically and we would need never be hungry.

I believe that one of the laboratories of the Atomic Commission is now working on such a dream. The carbon atoms may show the way. With such a discovery there would need be no fundamental change in our present physical set-up. We would continue to get our energy from the sun; but a large percentage of the present cost of raising foods would be eliminated. The first step would be to apply these experiments to canned juices of various kinds and later perhaps to dairy products. These will exceed in taste and nutrition certain present products and will give us the sun's energy in a far cheaper and more efficient manner.

What Would Happen To Business

What such a discovery would do to us economically I leave to your imagination! A limited amount of farm lands would be wanted for industrial products. Rayon, pulp, plastic and many other manufactured materials will always be dependent upon products of the soil. We, moreover, will continue to demand certain "whole" vegetables and fruits. Our stomachs require bulk which cannot be satisfied by juices or pills. When one considers the labor now engaged in the raising and processing of products now sold as juices, many million people might be thrown out of work and forced into other occupations.

Lands now used for fruit and some other agricultural purposes could decline in value. Railroads which depend largely upon the transportation of certain agricultural products, fertilizers, farm machinery, etc., could suffer. On the other hand, other lines such as building, clothing, fuels, automobiles, recreation and real estate in sunny states could have a great boom. This confirms the need of broad diversification in our investments which I have constantly preached in this column. Of course, this change is not coming all at once. Electronic juice and milk may be healthier than present non-enriched liquids, yet no juices can equal properly grown whole fruit and leafy vegetables of which we should eat much more.

What About World War III?

Such a discovery, today, could completely upset Russia's plans. With birth control and electronic foods, the arguments for Communism would disappear. Then we could have real world peace and a powerful United Nations. In fact, it is reasonable to believe that scientists at Argonne, Ill., Brookhaven, L. I., and Oak Ridge, Tenn., have this thought as their incentive which keeps them at work.

New York Star Is All Through Today, Formerly Was PM

New York, Jan. 28 (AP)—The New York Star, formerly PM, is closing shop because of financial difficulties.

Today's issue is the last. An announcement to readers said the Star's attempt to "publish a liberal newspaper" for "men and women who believe in the future of America" is being ended because of the paper's failure to obtain needed financial backing.

The tabloid daily, only metropolitans newspaper to support President Truman in the recent election campaign, was founded seven months ago as a successor to Marshall Field, 3rd's PM.

Bartley Crum, publisher, and Joseph Barnes, editor, said in a statement in the final issue that the paper had been unable to become self-supporting despite an increase in circulation and advertising.

Crum, a California attorney, and Barnes, former foreign editor of the New York Herald Tribune, acquired controlling interest in the paper from Field last April 28, and later changed its name to the New York Star.

Field earlier had announced plans to quit publishing of PM under his ownership.

Suspension of the Star affects about 400 employees, a spokesman said.

PM was founded eight years ago by Field and others with Ralph Ingersoll as editor and with a "no advertising policy" that was unprecedented among metropolitan dailies. Field became sole owner in 1942.

In 1946, the paper launched a circulation drive to offset a "financial crisis" caused by "higher postwar expense." At that time, the paper disclosed that Field had invested $4,315,000 in it.

In November of that year, the newspaper began accepting advertisements. Because of this Ingersoll resigned as editor and was replaced by John P. Lewis.

Thomas J. Murphy, executive vice president of the New York Local of the American Newspaper Guild, said the union had no immediate suggestion for continuing the paper, but expressed hope he suspension announcement may bring forth prospective buyers.

Murphy, saying Field's present connection with the paper is like that of a first mortgage holder, said he understood the physical assets of the plant would revert to Field.

Proceedings Are Asked

Providence, R. I., Jan. 28 (AP)—Proceedings against a second woman have been asked by the Rhode Island Department of Social Welfare in the alleged sale last October of a baby to a Bronx, N. Y., couple. The department requested the attorney general to take action against the woman, whose name police thus far have not disclosed. She is charged with placing a child in a foster home without notifying the social welfare department, a violation of state law.

5-Cent Cigar Comes Back

New York, Jan. 28 (AP)—The five-cent cigar staged a comeback in New York today. For the first time since the war nickel stogies were on "sale" again in this city. They represented the smoker's dividend on a general three-month price decline reported by the Bureau of Labor Statistics in Washington.

Regents Expecting Support in College Control Battle

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 28 (AP)—Regents Chancellor William J. Wallin said today he expects the Legislature's support in the Regents' fight with the Dewey administration over control of the 31 state-aided colleges.

Administrative control of the institutions is scheduled to be taken from the Regents by the state university's system's 15 trustees on April 1.

Although Wallin pledged a continued fight to retain control of the colleges, he told a reporter the Dewey administration had made peace with the Regents on another controversial issue—increased state aid for public schools.

Governor Dewey signalled the end of that battle Monday night, Wallin said, when he reported that an extra $100,000,000 in state aid for education would be included in his budget message to the Legislature February 1.

Wallin admitted however, that the administration and the Regents were "miles apart" on the proposed role the trustees should play in operation of the state-aided schools.

He said the Regents would sponsor legislation this year to amend the 1948 state university law to eliminate the provisions giving the control to the Dewey-appointed board of trustees.

He said he "expected" the legislation to be enacted. Wallin indicated that the Regents were not only committed to delay transfer of the administrative power, but that they would fight any similar move in the future.

The trustees charged last Sunday that the Regents were attempting to prevent them from making the projected 200,000,000 state university system an "immediate reality."

They labeled as a "bogey man" a previous charge by the Regents that the university law set up dual control of the state's educational system.

Wallin had no comment on that statement. He said the Regents' fight was against that law, not the trustees.

The chancellor said he expected the Regents would receive the details of Governor Dewey's proposal to boost state aid for education by $100,000,000 later today, during their regular monthly meeting.

He said, however, that he doubted if it would be the subject for "any lengthy debate."

Bills Proposed in Legislature

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 29 (AP)—Two Republican legislators called today for a "non-political, cooperative" study of what they termed New York city's "annual budget-balancing problem."

Senator Seymour Halpern and Assemblyman Fred W. Preller introduced companion resolutions to create a bi-partisan joint legislative committee to conduct the study.

In a statement, they asked that the move should not be interpreted as an investigation or a "witch-hunt."

"Our purpose," they asserted, "is to solve once and for all the complex and ever-recurring question of state aid, and state-city fiscal relationships."

The democratically-controlled city has been arguing with the state for years over financial problems.

Last year the city submitted a legislative program that would have allowed it to increase various local taxes and obtain a larger share of state aid funds.

Mayor William O'Dwyer requested, for example, that per capita state aid be increased from $6.75 to $10.00.

A few of the city's proposals, not including the state aid measure, were enacted.

At that time, O'Dwyer declared that New Yorkers were "up to our ears" in a fight with the state over finances. He said he was afraid it would be a long time before the fight would be won.

The committee proposed by Halpern and Preller would be asked "to study every phase of the budget and fiscal problems and policies of New York city and their relationship to the fiscal policies and problems of the state."

Meanwhile the Democratic minority joined a Republican move to outlaw wire-tapping in the state, except in capital cases.

A Democratic program bill was introduced by Assemblyman Bernard Austin of Brooklyn that closely paralleled one submitted yesterday by Assemblyman Samuel Roman, Manhattan Republican.

Under present laws a Supreme Court justice or county judge may issue a wire-tapping permit when evidence is presented that a crime may have been committed. The statute does not specify how serious the crime must be.

Bills were introduced yesterday which would:

Strike out restrictions on operation of motor vehicles by persons with junior operator's licenses, but prohibit operation by junior licensees for pay. Assemblyman D. Mallory Stephens, R-Putnam.

Allow public employees earning less than $5,000 a year pay of time many parents or other adults are responsible for the plight of (some) girls, yet the existing laws leave the court and agencies powerless to do anything constructive in dealing with such adults.

They said their proposal would give magistrates power "to order things to be done or not to be done" by parents, with the power of contempt for non-compliance.

Will Hold Hearings

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 28 (AP)—Methods of financing secondary road improvements will be the subject of hearings this year by a legislative committee. Senator Austin W. Erwin, Genesee Republican, told the New York State County Highway Superintendents Association yesterday that the committee, of which he is chairman, will conduct the hearings throughout the state. He reported that an initial study indicated a need for improvements because of increased traffic. A preliminary report of the committee's work will be submitted to the Legislature this year, he added. The association concludes its 38th annual conference today.

and a half for overtime. (Austin). Provide that railroad employees be paid on or before Thursday of each week wages earned during preceding calendar week. (Assemblyman Frank J. Caffery, D-Erie).

Preparing Garlic Bread

Women Attending Horticultural Meeting Given Special Program Planned for Their Interests

An illustrated travel talk, discussion of the latest fashions, how to make plastic pocketbooks and preparation of garlic bread were the diversified parts of the program presented for the women attending the eastern meeting of the New York State Horticultural Society at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Thursday afternoon. Approximately 80 women attended, more than half of which were from out-of-the-county.

This was the first program of its kind prepared especially for the wives of members and women visitors to the eastern meeting in Kingston. The unanimous was the approval that similar programs will be planned by the wives of fruit growers at the regional planning committee meeting for the next year's conference.

Arrangements for the afternoon were made through the courtesy of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, in cooperation with the Ulster County Home Bureau. Albert Kurdi, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, welcomed the attending and introduced Miss Everice Parsons, home demonstration agent for the county Home Bureau, who had charge of the program.

Mrs. James Devine of the Kingston Night Unit of Home Bureau gave the demonstration on plastic pocketbooks or bags. She passed the materials and pattern necessary for the bags to her audience; and with bags in various steps of completion, illustrated briefly the making of the same. She noted that the plastic material is pliable, will not crack, and will take "hard knocks." Several completed bags in a number of costume colors were passed among the members of the audience.

Travel Talk

The demonstration was followed by Mrs. Howard A. Lewis's description of her trips to Europe. Mrs. Lewis who lives at 12 West Chestnut street, this city, has made a number of trips abroad with her husband and most recently returned from England, Italy and Switzerland late last fall.

She described traveling aboard the Queen Elizabeth, The Golden Arrow, a train from London to Paris, via boat over the channel, the Rome Express, a train recently restored to service following the war, and a trip by the Swiss Airline. In each instance the speaker showed programs, passenger lists, pamphlets and folders presented to passengers, and also some of the experiences and sights seen along the way.

Mrs. Lewis spoke particularly of the many hours of entertainment aboard the Queen Elizabeth and of the telephone service aboard ship to any place in the world. In London she described a number of the buildings and hotels. One of her favorite spots in England is York which is surrounded by a wide wall erected during the early history of the place.

Speaking of the Women's Institutes, Mrs. Lewis noted that they were similar to the Home Bureaus, although entirely self-supporting. The group she visited numbered about 190 and at the time of her visit presented a play in which the choral society participated. Each survey (county) publishes a news sheet of its activities which is included in a state-wide report sent to all institutes.

Mrs. Lewis also described the boat trip across the choppy waters of the English channel and the experience of emerging from the railroad tunnel which passes through the Alps.

In Rome she spoke of the improvement made in many of the landmarks such as the Colosseum. The government has landscaped the ruins and arranged a beautiful lighting effect for night display of the familiar sight.

In closing, Mrs. Lewis showed a number of pictures and postcard illustrations by the use of a projector.

Encouraging news in spring and summer fashions was brought by Mrs. Sue Loughran of Hurley who told of the recent fashion showings which she attended in New York. Skirts will be somewhat shorter, about 12 inches from the floor, and not quite so billowy. Necklines conform to fashion, old "portrait" studies. Shoulder pads, although necessary for the proper styling of a dress, are much modified. Collars are turned up at the back and even on cotton dresses are not allowed to lie flat.

The new coats have belts and many of them are fitted. Suits, Mrs. Loughran described as being longer cut than last year, with much careful tailoring. Gabardines head the list for popularity.

Many styles in dresses were shown in the fashion marts. Pure silk materials are important with the surah or tie silk most lovely, the speaker noted. In regard to spring colors, Mrs. Loughran reported that blues were not so good this year as that beige and browns seemed to be the best.

For illustration of the latest in cottons, Mrs. Louis P. Hurley of Saugerties, assisted Mrs. Loughran by modeling several different styles. A blue and white plaid dress showing the turn-up collar and postillon cuffs with a full skirt, modified by all-around pleating, was shown, as was a cotton suit dress in grey, green and white plaid made with interesting designs worked by use of the print in the material.

A town suit to be worn for all-day events was made of a dark blue and black check cotton, with long sleeves, mandarin collar, waist buttoned with tiny black frogs, and a semi-full skirt. For special occasions, cocktail or summer dances, a dress in the new cotton taffeta material was modeled. The print was light and dark green, and the new modified plunging neckline was shown as well as the wide, nipped in waistline. Mrs. Hurley also modeled a surah silk in pale blue printed with tiny black flowers and showing a full skirt folded into pleats. The belt of the tie silk was black and dipped at the back.

Mrs. Loughran made note of the short hair styling which the fashion experts have decided is the best for the long lines of skirts and dresses.

Garlic Bread

Miss Joanne Van Allen, a Columbia county 4-H club worker, demonstrated the making of garlic bread for use with spaghetti dinners, or as she suggested with a spring salad meal. A half bud of garlic is crushed in a wooden bowl and mixed with a half cup of butter. A large loaf of French or Italian style bread is slashed as for cutting, although the base is left intact. The butter mixture is spread between the slashes and the loaf placed in a moderate oven until the butter is melted and the bread toasted a bit.

The loaf is served intact and Miss Van Allen noted that the diners pull-off a piece of bread as is the custom in the European countries.

During her illustrative talk, Miss Van Allen also prepared a spring salad and explained 4-H charts concerning food values, attractiveness of a dish of food and general meal preparation hints.

The program closed with a short discussion of the afternoon's entertainment and a unanimous vote for continuing the plan for the women.

Anne Tresvik, R.N., Becomes Bride Of Earl Mortensen

The Rev. Hans Voss officiated at an evening wedding Tuesday, January 18, for Miss Anne Tresvik of Rifton, niece of John Olaf of Bradford, R. I., and Earl R. Mortensen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Mortensen of 114 Crescent street, Providence, R. I. The ceremony was performed in Trinity Lutheran Church in Westerly, R. I.

The bride wore a grey faille suit with black accessories and white camellia corsage. The maid of honor, Miss Eleanor Mulvey of Providence, wore a navy blue suit with corsage of red camellias. Arthur Mulvey, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's uncle in Bradford, R. I., for the immediate families who came from Providence, Schenectady, Rifton, Kingston and Brooklyn. The couple left for a short wedding trip in Providence.

Mrs. Mortensen is a registered nurse, a graduate of Kingston Hospital School of Nursing. She is enrolled in the February class of the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia, Pa. Her husband attended Rhode Island State College prior to the war. He is attending Brown University in Providence from which he expects to be graduated in June 1949.

Both the bride and bridegroom are veterans of the past war. They served overseas in the southwest Pacific area. She served in the army nurse corps in the Philippines and he as a lieutenant (j.g.) saw action at Okinawa, Saipan, Guam, Two Jima and Japan.

More persons over 80 years of age live in Switzerland than in any other country in the world.

Metropolitan Opera Reports Deficit for Last Season

In a report made public yesterday the Metropolitan Opera Association, Inc., disclosed a deficit of $233,357 for the fiscal year ending May 31, 1948. The deficit was incurred in spite of playing to packed houses for every performance.

Charles M. Spofford, president of the association placed the high cost of labor, services and production as the main reason for the deficit. However, looking into the future, the association said that it was unlikely that a comparable deficit will be incurred this season, principally because restaging that took place last year will not be repeated this season, thus permitting a saving in production costs. The season before last the Metropolitan made a scant $11,808 profit.

'High' Style for Youth

Air-borne Show Plays up Low-Priced Togs

New York (NEA)—Who says that a junior needs the slouching talents of the F.B.I. to find a smart cotton dress for spring in budget-price brackets?

You can take this junior's word for it that she can find a smashing cotton dress for as little as $12.95.

It was the schoolgirl reporter invited to board a Colonial Sky-ruler on which a collection of "junior clique" fashions were shown in flight between New York and New England. Although my eyes were riveted to the smart styling of the crisp colorful cottons, I remembered the other ways budget-priced dresses must be judged.

Did they have good construction as well as good design? Did they have generous hems? Were the shoulder pads scaled to fit? Did the buttonholes have a hand made look? And were buttons good-looking enough to be allowed to remain or would they have to be replaced by others of better quality?

The 18 models shown would, I think, meet the most exacting demands on all of these counts. There is proof of the clever styling which a junior-sized dress must satisfy in the three designs shown.

At right, is a sunback ensemble of yellow-sprigged calico print on a background of black cotton

This old-fashioned fabric makes a new-fashioned, bare-topped dress with a cover-up jacket. The jacket reverses to switch colors from a contrast top of black cotton to a matching top of calico print.

For another smart ensemble (left) made of shimmering gray cotton chambray circled with candy-pink stripes, the sunback dress becomes a street-going frock when a snug messboy jacket is buttoned up by pretty pink buttons.

Typical of the good classic styling which prevailed in this collection is the pale lavender chambray dress (center). The design features a snugly-fitted Empire waistline and a tucked bodice topped by a Peter Pan collar.

Annual Report of Kingston Hospital Nurses' Alumnae

Following is the official annual report of the Kingston Hospital Nurses' Alumnae Association:

"During the year there were nine regular meetings and two special meetings making a total of 11 meetings. Flowers were sent to all members of the alumnae who had been ill during the year.

"A contribution of five dollars was sent to the Ulster County Tuberculosis Association, to the Christmas Cheer Fund of Kingston, and to purchase a tuberculosis Christmas bond. A donation of $25 was sent to the Red Cross. "A loan fund of $300 was established this year for any alumnae member in need.

"Miss Dorothy Buddenhagen was sent by the alumnae with all expenses paid, to the advisory council of the New York State Nurses Association held at Lake Placid in October. Miss Buddenhagen was sent also to the tuberculosis and health dinner in May.

"The graduation class of 1948 was given a semi-formal dance held at Twaillskill Golf Club on September 14, 1948.

"The Alumnae Association sponsored the redecoration of the special nurses room on the second floor of the hospital. We also had a telephone installed in this room.

"Our program committee planned parties, recreational and educational movies following the majority of our regular monthly meetings. This program was greatly enjoyed by those attending.

"A card party and food sale were held to raise money to purchase an oxygen unit for the hospital.

"A special meeting of the Private Duty Nurses Section of the alumnae was held to accept the recommendation sent out by District 11 as to wages for eight-hour duty and extras for isolation, mental and nervous diseases and obstetrical patients and their babies."

Respectfully submitted,
E. Y. SPADER, R.N., Secretary.

Still on Milk Probe

New York, Jan. 28 (AP)—Mayor William O'Dwyer says City Investigation Commissioner John M. Murlagh's current inquiry into milk pricing methods here will continue "until milk prices are brought still lower." Several price cuts have been announced in recent weeks.

CIGARETTE DAMAGE

An unhappy situation is described as follows: "The other evening, one of our guests (an intimate friend) dropped a lighted cigarette on an expensive new chair cover. It was not noticed until it had done irreparable damage. It upset me so that I asked whether the person would mind not smoking for the rest of the evening. I understand now that everyone thinks me very rude in my insinuations of their behavior. I guess I'm in wrong with all of them. Was it out of order, considering the expensive damage?"

I'm sorry to have to tell you that the reason they thought you rude was because of your implication that they would risk doing the same thing when, actually, they intended to take every care to avoid the risk of doing similar damage.

Kind Intention

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it rude not to open a gift which someone brings personally? If so, might there be any exceptional instances when it would not be? For example: Several friends came to see me on my birthday, but only one knew it was a special day and brought me a gift. I thanked her and put the package aside so as not to embarrass the empty-handed others. Then later, as soon as all had gone and the friend arrived home, I telephoned to thank her personally for her most lovely gift.

Answer: I can understand your reason for doing this and think it was quite proper under the circumstances. On the other hand if the one who brought the present was a very intimate friend and the other two casual acquaintances, it would have been quite all right to open it.

Mrs. Post describes the size and quality, as well as the color, of table linen to be used for formal or informal occasions. Also, the rule for place cards is included in booklet No. 504. ## Soviet Would Put Miscreants in Red

Berlin, Jan. 28 (AP)—Ink as a weapon against ill-behaved Russian soldiers was recently proposed by the Russian commandant of a small eastern German town, the British-licensed Telegraph reported today.

Some women had come to see the commandant, the newspaper's story says, to complain about increasing molestation of German women by Russian soldiers.

When the Russian officer asked the women what he should do about it, they didn't know. So he came up with an idea.

"Always carry some ink with you," he said. "In case of distress, pour it over the soldier's clothes. Since every soldier has but one uniform, I can easily find out the culprits from the ink-blot."

Coats Are Stolen From Skating Star

New York, Jan. 28 (AP)—Two mink coats valued at $38,000 were stolen last night from Sonja Henie, skating star, when thieves ransacked her luxurious hotel apartment.

Police said the coats were taken from her suite at the Hotel Pierre on 5th avenue. The actress-skater, former wife of Daniel Topping, occupies a suite adjoining her mother's apartment.

Miss Henie is starring in her ice show now at Madison Square Garden.

The burglary was reported by Miss Henie's mother when she returned to the hotel at 3:30 a. m. The coats were described as a platinum mink valued at $28,000 and a wild ranch mink worth about $10,000.

The theft is another in a series that have occurred in fashionable Manhattan hotels and apartment houses during the past few months. The largest was that reported by Erhart Ruegg, textile manufacturer, from whose East Side apartment more than $160,000 in jewelry was taken early this month.

Jewelry valued at more than $20,000 was stolen last November from former Congresswoman Clare Boothe Luce while she slept in her Waldorf Astoria apartment.

How the burglar or burglars gained access to Miss Henie's rooms was not determined immediately.

Miss Henie's mother said she did not know whether jewelry also had been stolen from her daughter's suite.

'Malicious Alarm' Reported

An alarm from a box at School 5, Wynkoop Place at 9:58 p. m. Thursday was said by firemen today to be "a malicious false alarm."

Kiwanis members unanimously ratified the action of the new Kiwanis Kapers committee in planning for another Kapers show this year. The dates were set for November 28 and 29. President Harry Rigby, Jr., presided. About 80 members were present.

Kiwanis Hears Of Ditching B-24

The experience of ditching a B-24 bomber in the English Channel in wartime was related to members of the Kingston Kiwanis Club at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Thursday noon by Captain Arthur Brown at Fort Wayne, Ind.

Captain Brown was pilot of a bomber which in a raid over Germany in October, 1944, received flank damage to its gasoline tanks and was forced down in the channel. Four crew members were lost, but the others were able to get in a life raft and were later rescued by the British patrol boat.

During the business meeting,

Courtesy Appreciated

Editor, The Freeman:

As a visitor to your city on Saturday, January 22nd, an occurrence of unusual courtesy should be brought to the attention of your readers.

Thomas Gerrity, a national officer, Mrs. Mary Ockasy, the state vice-president of the Letter Carriers' Auxiliary and John Ockasy, the vice-president of the Yorkers Letter Carriers, left Poughkeepsie with the intent of meeting me at a meeting of the Kingston Letter Carriers.

They had no knowledge of where the meeting was held and solicited the aid of the Kingston police. Not only was the meeting place located but an escort was furnished to aid in making these visitors comfortable.

Such services to out-of-town visitors helps advertise your city in a pleasing manner and you can rest assured that it will be a real pleasure to tell "the world" about this gallantry.

Sincerely yours,
HERBERT GEBHARDT,
State Secretary

They Wanted a Small Wedding

When 37-inch Marie Cazzano married 39-inch Eddy A. Kozicki in Miami Beach, Fla., it was a big wedding in everything but stature. The couple was married at St. Patrick's Church, and they wore the latest nuptial fashions. After the wedding, 33-inch photographer Kaye Erickson took their pictures. Marie is 41 years old, Eddy 32.

TYRONE AND LINDA CUT THEIR CAKE

Tyrone Power and his bride, the former Linda Christian, cut their wedding cake in Rome, Italy, home of James C. Dunn, U. S. Ambassador to Italy, following their marriage. They were married by Monsignor William Hennick, of Washington, D. C., in the little Church of Santa Francesca Romana in Rome. (A.P. Wire-photo by radio from Rome to New York)

Tyrone, Bride Tired Out

Rome, Jan. 28 (AP)—Tyrone Power and his bride, the former Linda Christian, got up before dawn today to start their wedding trip. They had planned to leave yesterday, and drive as far as Florence on their way to north Italy, Switzerland and Austria. But the festivity that followed their marriage yesterday morning tired them out and they postponed their departure until today.

nor Dewey's defeat for the presidency last November has marked debate in both Houses of the Legislature.

Dewey was subjected to more of this when he attended the 30th annual legislative dinner of the New York Department, American Legion.

Edward N. Scheiberling of Albany, former Legion national commander and a Democrat introduced the governor as the principal speaker.

In his introduction, Scheiberling told Dewey:

"You are still a very young man as presidential candidates go."

He added:

"We had a man in our party (William Jennings Bryan) who was defeated three times. So don't give up, governor."

Scheiberling also told Dewey that "if you went to the White House, you couldn't live there anyway."

The White House currently is being repaired. President Truman and his family is living across the street in Blair House.

Dewey, for his part, said it was a "fact that I tried to leave Albany."

"But," he added, "when I found out that I was going to be up against a Democratic House and Senate, I decided to stay in Albany."

Dewey said that the day after his election defeat he was asked how he felt. He said he assured questioners that the "Republican Party and its candidate are very much alive."

out in plane strength—there just wouldn't be as many separate operating groups.

It never has been made clear in Congressional hearings just how much difference, in actual plane numbers, there is between a 48-group and a 70-group air force. But there is agreement that the more units there are, the more ground troops will be needed to support them and protect their operating bases.

Ten groups of bombers and fighters would be better than 20 groups of reconnaissance planes," one committee member explained. "It all depends on how many planes are in a unit, and what types they are."

The military "fill-in" given the appropriations committee members followed a similar session arranged by military leaders for the armed services committee.

Those who attended said they are convinced that now is not the time for the United States to let its defense slip, although they saw no immediate danger of war with anyone.

Car, Truck Collide

Drivers of a panel truck and a car which collided at Dock and Ravine streets shortly after 2 p. m., Thursday, escaped uninjured, according to a police report. The truck, owned by John Edward Troy, 184 North Manor avenue, was driven by William E. Powers, Jr., 192 Albany avenue, and the car was operated by Robert J. Jordan, 15 E. 1st street. The truck was headed south on Ravine street and Jordan was going west on Dock street turning into Ravine street when they collided. Both drivers reported damages.

Russo Stages Brilliant Comeback to Kayo Hall in Second Round

Prize Highland Prospect Thrills Boxing Crowd With Punching Power

A new amateur boxing star—courageous, hard punching Mickey Russo of Highland—captivated the boxing crowd at the municipal auditorium last night and gave Bill Singer a flying start in his new debut as boxing director for B'nai B'rith.

It required only 1:52 of the second round for Russo to pulverize hard hitting Jimmy Hall, 145, of Buffalo. Russo weighed 145.

Classic Comeback
The manner in which Russo rallied from a withering barrage of Hall haymakers in the early moments of the first round to a slashing comeback and crushing victory was the big story.

The trim, handsome youngster from Highland was almost felled by Hall's first onslaught. The highly touted Buffalo cloutier swarmed all over the Highlander, whipping terrific rights to the jaw. Russo wavered momentarily, shook the cobwebs out of his head, and launched his counter offensive.

From then until the finish when Hall was giving clear evidence that he was looking for some place to run and hide, Russo unleashed a masterpiece of punching power.

Hall Folds
Near the end of the first round, Russo suddenly flashed a left jab and a bone crushing right cross to dump the thoroughly surprised Hall on his pants in a neutral corner. Hall took the count of nine and was never quite the same after that volley. Seconds later Russo dropped him again.

Russo bounced Hall off the ropes early in the second round then sent him reeling for another nine-count in the center of the ring. Another volley and it was all over at 1:52. Hall had earlier given evidence that while he could dish it out, he did not relish Russo's counter blows. The fans sensed it quickly and began moving for the exits after the first knockdown in the second round.

The young Highland Italian was a magnificent specimen last night. He showed raw courage in absorbing the early punching and proved he could punch with either hand. He appears destined to follow in the wake of renowned predecessors like Carmine Virgilio and Tony Barone.

Tuttle Wins Semi-Final
Dick Tuttle, 154, Gloversville, was awarded an unpopular decision over Ernest Keith, 160, Ganung, Buffalo Negro in the five-round semi-final. The verdict was split.

Tuttle, who is showing the strain of continued headline fighting against major opponents, absorbed a heavy beating.

Two weeks ago the blond Gloversville cloutier, who is raw courage personified, engaged in a grueling slugfest with Al Metson of Canada. He has been going at a feverish clip and probably could stand a rest.

Keith, who showed no inclination to mix it freely, hit and ran away and scored at will with long rights. He used his knees indirectly on occasions and this may have influenced the judges and referee. The Freeman score card had Keith out in front by a decisive margin.

Other Results
Red Barneson, 150, Canaan, scored a third round technical knockout over Johnny Lester, 152, Buffalo, overcoming Lester's early lead in a good battle.

Lester complained of a cut in his mouth in the one of the second round but the club physician ruled that it was not serious enough to warrant halting the bout.

A series of Barneson rights dumped Lester for a count of nine. When Lester arose he protested to Referee Vozdik continuing and the Saugerties arbiter halted the fight. Lester was bleeding from the mouth when the bout ended.

Harry Smith, 120, Canaan, outpointed Rufus Rodgers, 124, Albany, via split decision in the opening fly rounder.

Reggie Henderson, 115, Poughkeepsie, scored technical kayo over Al Smith, 112, Troy, in 1:03 of the second.

Pat Fusaro, 123, Saugerties, stopped Bob Hood, 120, Albany, via technical knockout in 1:10 of the first.

Julius Jamieson, 135, New York, knocked out Bill Barker, 135, in 1:58 of the first round of the curtain riser.

Ring officials were Bob Steele and Joe Vozdik, referees; Jack Sheppard and Fred Eklar, judges; Meyer Kaplan, timekeeper. Dave Popick made his debut as announcer.

Next Boxing Show Slated for Feb. 10

Chairman William Singer of B'nai B'rith boxing committee has announced that the date of the next card is Thursday night, February 10.

Singer, who took over promotion of the sport for the club last night, said approximately 1,200 attended the bouts, adding that he was highly pleased, considering weather conditions and other events on the evening schedule.

Jackie Harris of Schenectady, introduced from the ring as one of the outstanding amateurs upstate, is scheduled to appear on the February 10 card.

Plan Robinson Bout for Williams If He Wins Tonight

New York, Jan. 28 (AP)—Plans for an Ike Williams-Ray Robinson welter title match next summer hinge on a decisive victory for Ike in tonight's Madison Square Garden rematch with Cuban Kid Gavilan.

Many things must be straightened out before lightweight champion Williams can square off against Sugar Ray. One is Mr. Gavilan.

The Rhumba Kid made it real close with Williams last February. If Ike can't better his margin in the return ten-rounder, he may decide to stick to the 135-pound class.

"Sure I want to win the welter title," Ike said recently, "but if I win it I'll probably give it up and go back to fighting lightweight. They make more money."

Gavilan could be the man to discourage Williams' ambitions. Ike barely outpointed Gavilan Feb. 27, even though the decision was unanimous.

The odds favoring Williams tonight by as much as 5 to 13 are hard to understand. Gavilan, required to weigh 143 for the first fight, missed his mark and came in at 141½, only five pounds more than Ike. This time the flashy Cuban bolo number will weigh 146 or 147 to Williams' 139.

With 20 straight wins and a great record, Williams figures to be a favorite—but not that big. The price may come down by bell time.

Of the Fabled Celtics:

Tom Meany, the famous sports humorist, has an absorbing article on the Original Celtics in the February issue of Sport Magazine and many of its choice morsels will be of great interest to Kingston fans of another era.

Through all the glamor and tinsel of the saga of the Celtics, however, we noted a conspicuous absence of any reference to the 1923 "world's championship series" in which Frank "Po" Morgenweck's quintet knocked off Ed Furey's Shamrocks in two out of three. But the veteran historian of the Morgenweck period, J. Joseph Beichert, Port Ewen auto tycoon, will have something to say about that later.

The Orioles of Basketball:
The most publicized and glamorous of all the teams in professional basketball history, the Celtics were to basketball what the Baltimore Orioles were to baseball just before the turn of the century, Meany writes.

The actual beginning of the Celtics, is shrouded in basketball antiquity. Meany relates that in 1941 the late Garry Schmeelk, one of the greatest set shots professional basketball ever knew, told him that not one basketball fan in a thousand could name the "original" Original Celtics.

Schmeelk operated a package store on New York's West Side and in the window he had a group picture of the "originals." He offered a case of liquor to anyone who could identify the whole group. Schmeelk never had to pay off.

The photo included Hart, McCormick, Goggin, Malley, Calhoun, Witte, Barry and F. McCormick. Witte and Barry went on with the more famous Celtics, but this squad captioned 1914-17 undoubtedly was the original.

Jim Furey Comes on the Scene:
Not until some five years later did the modern Celtics emerge, during the winter of 1922-23 when Jim Furey, a far-seeing promoter took the first step to bring order out of chaos in basketball.

Furey had a certain genius in promotion and it asserted itself quickly. He hired the 71st Regiment Armory in Manhattan and organized the Celtics to play for him. There was to be no more barnstorming. The players signed contracts and received straight salaries.

The Era of Horse Haggerty:
The members of this first Celtic team were Pete Barry, who appeared in the 1914-17 group picture; Dutch Dehnert, who was to accidentally originate the "pivot play" one night in Chattanooga; "Horse" Haggerty, a giant of a man; Johnny Beckman, regarded by many as the greatest all-around player of all time; Joe Trippie and Ernie Reich, the latter a brother of the famous pugilist, Al Reich.

These were the Original Celtics as the public came to know them, Meany writes. Only a squad of six men—but Coach Witte would play in a pinch.

Later there were important additions—Nat Holman and Chris Leonard from the New York Whirlwinds; Joe Lapchick from the Brooklyn Visitations; Charlie Husta from Kingston; Davey Binks and Nat Hickey.

From New York's West Side:
Most of the Celtics came from a rough, brawling neighborhood on New York's West Side, between 23rd and 29th street and 6th and 10th avenues. Almost simultaneously there sprang up in that small area some of the greatest players the game has ever seen—Pete Barry, Johnny Beckman, Johnny Witte, Reich, Dehnert and Hickey.

Of this group, Barry, Witte, Reich, Dehnert and Beckman were with the "originals," the first squad by Jim Furey. All, except Reich, who died while still an active player, went on to distinguish themselves as coaches.

Bowling Scores

Some pretty steady thumping featured the Church Federation League schedule Wednesday night at the Y.M.C.A. drives with 12 kegler turning in "500" triples. Harold "Chick" Smith, the Presbyterian anchor man, led the parade with a gaudy 593 three-timer on scores of 196-216-181.

Next in line were Chet Weeks who exploded 209-207-583 and Frank Roe who clubbed a pair of 199s and a neat 592 series.

Other men of distinction included Ray Cord, the K.B.A. secretary, who belted a 223 single and 565 triple; Herb Slight 211-560; Had DeGraff 210-548; Art Carr 202-501; T. Slicker 181-517; T. Schussler 205-508; and H. Osmer 176-504.

Dozen for Yanks

New York, Jan. 28 (AP)—The New York Yankees now have an even dozen in their baseball fold, the latest contract signers being pitchers Fred Sanford and Joe Page. The two hurlers came to terms after conferences yesterday. The Yankee front office, declining to disclose figures, said "everybody was happy."

Newark, N. J., Jan. 28 (AP)—Newark, outpointed Ted Lowry, 176, New Bedford, Mass., 10.

Marshall Plan No Attraction for Business

Washington, Jan. 28 (AP)—American businessmen are showing little interest in investing dollars in Marshall Plan countries. The joint congressional committee on foreign economic cooperation, reporting this, said that unless Congress offers better guarantees to American investors, "a substantial improvement" will have to occur in European recovery before private investment will assume an important role.

The report was submitted to the Senate yesterday by retiring Chairman Bridges (R-N.H.) at a time when President Truman is calling on American private capital to help develop backward areas of the world.

Tastes Vary There

Johannesburg, South Africa, Jan. 28 (AP)—In South Africa, just as in the United States, pin-up girls are a matter of taste. Thousands of American calendars bearing pictures of scantily clad love-lies have been seized by customs authorities. But, an importer complained: "There seems to be no rhyme or reason in the banning procedure. Some are seized, and some, almost exactly similar, are released for sale. It seems to depend on which examining officer is on duty when each crate is opened.

Proportion Decrease

The proportion of Negroes in the population of the United States has decreased from about one-fifth in 1790 to less than one-tenth today.

Hotel Night Clerk Holds Bandit Till Police Come

New York, Jan. 28 (AP)—Angelo Liguori, 55, night clerk at the Sixth Street Hotel, 39 Cooper Square, was reading behind his counter at 11 o'clock last night when a man, his fist in his coat pocket entered and said, "Give me all you got and make it snappy."

Liguori, who had never been held up before, told newsmen later: "I had $35 in my pocket, and I needed it. The hotel till had $35 more, and I didn't want to give it up. I was wearing a $50 wrist watch my wife gave me for Christmas, and I didn't want to lose it."

He sprang through the door of his tiny office, seized the bandit's wrist with one hand and his throat with the other and shouted for help. Marie Gallo, 30, a resident of the hotel, heard him and, on Liguori's order, used the office telephone to call police.

When radio cars arrived they found the prisoner gasping for breath, and subdued. Patrolman William Tekverk and Sergeant James Sheridan said the prisoner identified himself as Joseph E. Urban, 32, a jobless counterman, of Harriman, N. Y.

As Patrolman Tekverk and Sergeant Sheridan were booking the prisoner on a charge of attempted robbery, they praised the work of Liguori. The prisoner, they said, told the night clerk, "You got a lot of nerve. You deserve credit."

The prisoner was unarmed, police said.

Silverman Gets Insurance Honors

Ben Silverman, assistant district manager of the Prudential Insurance Company, was presented with a 25-year certificate and diamond locket today at the meeting of employees at the local office. The locket and award was presented by William Rose, district manager.

Silverman entered the service of the company in New York No. 10, under Superintendent James Baker on January 14, 1924 and was transferred to Kingston on June 16, 1924 under Superintendent Peter Dobler. He was promoted to assistant manager on October 19, 1925. He is the father of four children and resides at 318 Main street.

In addition to the 25 year certificate and diamond locket, Mr. Silverman was also presented with a large basket of flowers from his staff, the presentation being made by Agent Jesse Freese who is the agent with the longest service, having served 32 years with the Prudential Insurance Company. Silverman is very prominent in Jewish circles being a trustee of Temple Emanuel.

McGarrigle Only 'Guest,' Others Ordered to Move

Five transients "checked in" here Thursday and today through local police effort, but only one was "invited" to stay.

The first "greeted" was William McGarrigle, who said he has no home and the next was John Conroy of Boston, both held on disorderly conduct charges. Later yesterday the police held Joseph Gervail, who also said he had no home, on a public intoxication charge, and early this morning, Thomas O'Rourke, the Bronx, and John Blasing, Yonkers, were held on similar charges.

City Judge Matthew V. Cahill this morning decided to let McGarrigle, who is known by authorities as a "repeater," linger at the Ulster county jail for 90 days, but the others he ordered out of the city as fast as they could make it.

Taylor Leaves Point

West Point, N. Y., Jan. 28 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, superintendent of the U. S. Military Academy for three years, turned over his command today to Maj. Gen. Bryant E. Moore. Taylor presented officers of the cadet corps to his successor at a ceremony outside post headquarters. A 13-gun salute was fired in honor of Moore and a similar salute sounded as Taylor left the post. Taylor will become chief of staff of the army's European command in Germany.

Publicity Must Be Good

Washington, Jan. 28 (AP)—House Republicans have decided the G. O. P. has had enough "damaging publicity." They are setting up a special committee to look about the "good things" being done by their party in Congress. Minority Floor Leader Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts jokingly referred to it as a "war committee for 1950," when the Republicans hope to regain the control of Congress they lost in last year's elections.

Condition Good

The condition of Samuel Stern, 28, President's Place local optometrist, who was admitted to the Kingston Hospital earlier this week, was reported as "good" at the hospital today. The nature of his illness was not disclosed.

Administration

sion for outlawing them, too, if conducted to put a jurisdictional strike across, or to force employers to violate N.L.R.B. rulings. In a secondary boycott, a union striking against one company tries to stop other firms from doing business with that company.

National emergency strikes—Procedure for preventing them would be patterned after the Railway Labor Act. That calls for a 60-day cooling off period and appointment of fact finding boards to recommend settlement. If that didn't work, the government—but not employers—could petition for a court injunction in cases where the President decided the public welfare was endangered.

Strikes and walkouts, growing out of contract disputes—They would be outlawed, too, and machinery set up to encourage arbitration.

Stronger Labor Department—Return of the conciliation service, now independent, to the department.

and his Jewish friends and his British friends because I've been brought up to be a 100 per cent African girl. . . . We are shedding our good young blood for this 'Kike' war, for this British war. . . . In recordings Nos. 2, 3 and 5, Midge gave "medical reports" on "wounded fliers, shot down over Germany and German-occupied territory, and lucky enough to have escaped alive."

Some samples:
"Well, if you folks want to fight, to aid and abet the decline of the west—well, you certainly are taking the right course."

"And so you want to sacrifice your sons to try to destroy that great country, Germany. . . . It's the blackest page in world history."

The prosecution beat the defense to the draw with the story of how Miss Gillars, while working for the Nazi radio, wanted no part of an American flier who deserted to the Germans.

James J. Laughlin, Miss Gillars' chief counsel, frequently has mentioned Martin J. Monti, the flier. Monti pleaded guilty to a treason charge in New York Jan. 17 and was sentenced to 25 years.

With Houben on the stand, Kelley brought up the Monti matter. Miss Gillars told him that Monti was "a spy or traitor" and didn't want people like him around her. Houben testified.

Directors Are Chosen

At the annual meeting of stockholders of the Universal Road Machinery Company the following directors were elected: A. B. Shufeldt, C. R. O'Connor, J. Halwick, H. Stephens, John W. Barton, Francis E. Palen, Jr. Inspectors of election are Leona Kegler and Lila Randall.

B-25 Crashes Within 100 Feet of Farmhouse

Madison, Wis., Jan. 28 (AP)—An air force B-25 crashed within 100 yards of a Dane county farmhouse last night moments after the light bomber's three-man crew parachuted to safety.

The plane crashed near Sam Aime's farmhouse near Brooklyn, Wis., 20 miles south of here, the Dane county sheriff's department reported.

Sheriff's officers identified members of the crew as Lt. R. K. Scudder, 30, Salt Lake City, pilot; Lt. H. M. Swanson, Tusculum, Mo., co-pilot, and Pvt. Appolinar Ortega, 21, of Georgetown, Calif. They quoted the crew members as saying the plane developed engine trouble about 11,000 feet during the flight from Minneapolis to Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio.

Aime said he had talked with the three crewmen and none was hurt. Sheriff's officers brought the men to Madison for the night.

Cruises Will Start

Washington, Jan. 28 (AP)—The navy starts a series of cruises Tuesday to give its reservists pilots carrier experience. Air Force Reservists may be consolidated with the Air National Guard into one federal group. The air force said high ranking officers will meet soon at the Pentagon to study the proposed merger. The first carrier cruise, the navy said today, will give two squadrons of reserve fliers from the Chicago area 14 days of training in the Gulf of Mexico and Caribbean area. They will board the light carrier Cabot at Pensacola, Fla.

Marines Back on Leave

Li Dispatches Plea

sioned by Dr. Sun Yat-sen, founder of the republic. Li said that political differences which led to the civil war should not be allowed to prolong the conflict and the suffering of the Chinese people.

"Both sides," Li added, "should abide by the people's wishes, find a political means to settle the dispute, and take no further steps which will multiply our crimes a hundred times."

Li declared that "if we can meet in sincerity together I am sure we can reach an agreement."

The acting president reiterated that "the government" has accepted Mao's eight points as a basis for peace talks. These points call for tearing up the constitution and trying government leaders the Reds consider "war criminals."

These include Chiang, Pai and Li, but the Communists said Wednesday they would forgive Li if he would show his sincerity for peace by "detaining" Chiang and the others.

Li said nothing about "detaining" anyone. Instead he told Mao that unless old grudges are forgotten for the country's good "then you and I will become criminals of the people for thousands of years to come."

Regiment Revolts

Peiping, Jan. 28 (AP)—A regiment of Nationalist troops revolted today when ordered into Red territory under the Beijing peace pact. Troops loyal to Nationalist Gen. Fu Tso-yi engaged the rebelling regiment. Fu's headquarters said the revolt was suppressed.

The engagement in Peiping's southern suburbs lasted several hours. Peiping residents heard mortar and machinegun fire during the clash.

The revolting troops belonged to the 9th Army and were among units under the command of Nationalist Gen. Shih Chu-chi, bitter opponent of a peaceful settlement of the Peiping siege.

General Shih reportedly went south after the Jan. 22 cease fire order that resulted in handing over this ancient city to the Communists.

Webb Is Undersecretary

Washington, Jan. 28 (AP)—James E. Webb became undersecretary of state today at a ceremony witnessed by most of President Truman's cabinet. Webb, 42-year-old North Carolinian, succeeds Robert A. Lovett in the State Department high command. A group that included diplomats and members of the North Carolina delegation in Congress, as well as the cabinet members, attended the ceremony at the State Department. Webb was sworn in by Raymond M. Ladd, chief of protocol, in the office of Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

Many of the diamond mines of South Africa are located in the cores of ancient volcanoes.

Star Show Slated

the show, and playing for dancing afterward until 3 a. m., will be Johnny Michaels' band, which has made a hit at numerous social functions hereabouts for an extended period.

Listed as the feature act is Sharkey, Mark Huling's famous movie and musical comedy seal. Sharkey needs no introductions, neither does his trainer who has been a headliner as a seal college professor for many years.

Two other stars on the bill are Ralph Branca, pitching star of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who sings when he isn't slanting 'em off the mound, and Charles Sorce, former polio victim and former U.S.O. singer.

Seven Acts

The complete program announced by Chairman Kalish is as follows:

1. Charles Sorce, U.S.O. entertainer during the war and member of the original Horn and Hardart hour on NBC, singing your favorite songs.

2. Ralph Branca, pitching star of the Brooklyn Dodgers, currently doing a stage stint in Walter Reade theatres throughout the country in a real surprise entertainment.

3. Dave Popick, formerly of the Morey Amsterdam show and the Playboys Club in New York city, master of ceremonies and entertainer extraordinary.

4. Betty La Tour, one of the most promising of the new singing stars, who studied with much success at some of the finest musical schools in the country.

5. Roger Baer, prominent local musician and teacher, with fine interpretations at the piano, and a brilliant display of accomplishment on the Solovox.

6. Mark Huling, who will appear with the internationally famous seal "Sharkey" in an act that has thrilled thousands of persons from the Royal families in Europe to the least important citizen in Peoria.

7. Johnny Michaels and his entertaining band in a series of musical novelties.

Ralph Branca and Mark Huling with Sharkey are being presented through the generous cooperation of Robert W. Case, manager of the local Walter Reade theatres.

According to Attorney William Kelly, general chairman, returns on patron and single tickets indicate a large attendance at the outstanding social event. Those who cannot attend but desire to contribute may send donations to March of Dimes, Box 983, Kingston, N. Y.

It has been estimated by the National Foundation that more than 110,000 polio victims have been helped by dime contributions reaching $40,000,000 in the past 11 years.

Flower Girls

Young ladies serving on the flower committee under direction of the Misses Catherine Heneberry and Rosemary Murphy will be Patricia Sanford, Mary Sangaline, Kaye Whelan, Mary Ann Koenig, Barbara Ewig, Joan Ewig, Nancy Sangaline, Justine Van Brainer, Joan Van Gonsic, Maureen Troy, Lorraine Murzey, Patricia Martin, Betty Culleton, Natalie Ann Murray, Audrey Jablonski, Mariann Belchert and Laura Heinlein.
